The Italo-Ethiopian Crisis.

Ethiopian natives and Italian authorities began evacuation of Addis Ababa. Britain was reported planning forcible resistance to any Italian naval blockade in northeast Africa. Mussolini informally received cabinet members at Bolzano, where Italian war maneuvers are in progress.

By the Associated Press.

Addis Ababa, Aug. 26.—Ethiopian natives and Italian authorities alike began evacuation of the capital today amid rapid-fire developments indicative of a general belief that hostilities were almost at hand.

Prices of the scanty food commodities soared. The Italian government began evacuating its citizens and legation archives, and other diplomats acted for protection of their legations in the event of air bombardments.

Mahan Hunted Near Baltimore

Gas Station Attendant Says
He Saw Weyerhaeuser
Kidnap Suspect.

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, Aug. 26.—City, State and Federal officers tonight had been unable to locate an automobile in which a man resembling William Mahan, Weyerhaeuser kidnap suspect, was reported riding.

The report was made to State police by Joseph Logue, filling station operator at Carroll County. He said a man drove to the station this morning in a car bearing Ohio license plates, asked for gasoline and said he had no money.

The man, Logue said, showed a "courtesy gasoline card" bearing the name of William Marrell. A Department of Justice agent stationed at Baltimore said that is one of the aliases used in the past by Mahan.

Logue said since the card had expired a year ago, he refused to give him gasoline and the man drove toward Baltimore.

The filling station operator said the man's face was familiar to him. After the poorly dressed and bearded stranger drove off, Logue looked through a sheet of police lookout notices in the station and found one bearing Mahan's picture.

The picture tallied with the face of the man he had just seen, Logue said.

Mahan's name was brought into the Weyerhaeuser case when Department of Justice agents arrested Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Waley, who were convicted on the kidnapping charges. The Waleys confessed and implicated Mahan.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, yesterday refused to comment on the report that William Mahan, Weyerhaeuser kidnap suspect, had been seen near Baltimore.

Envoy Flays 'Anti-Soviet' Propaganda

Troyanovsky Holds U.S.

Russia to Make Formal
Reply to Note; Will Be 'Satisfactory.'

By Felix Bruner.

Statements made in Moscow concerning the United States are "insignificant" compared with anti-Russian propaganda in this country, Ambassador Alexander Troyanovsky said yesterday in an indirect reply to the American note of protest delivered to the Soviet government Sunday.

In a statement that may forecast the complaint against interference with the internal affairs of the United States, Troyanovsky pointed out that statements complained of were made in Moscow by American citizens.

Troyanovsky indicated that a "satisfactory" reply will be made by the Soviet government, but he gave no indication of when it would be made. The State Department has not been informed when a response may be expected.

Quotes the Bible.

The Russian Ambassador's statement said:

"I have no intention of saying anything about the note of protest lodged by Ambassador Bullitt with our foreign office.

"A satisfactory reply will be made in Moscow by my government. I wish to refer only to a campaign which has been conducted by some persons in this country against our government and against our form of government.

"I recall the biblical injunction: 'And why beholdest thou the mote which is in thy brother's eye but perceivest not the beam that is in thine own eye?'

No Statements Cited.

"Anything said in Moscow by American citizens about the United States is very insignificant compared to continuous propaganda in the United States against the Soviet Union."

Have even seen suggestions that our government should somehow stop the activity of American organizations and American citizens in the United States.

"It is obvious that my government will not interfere in the internal affairs of the United States in this or any other way."

The protest made by the United States made no reference to any particular statements made in Moscow but referred only to the recent meeting of the Third International in that city, at which it was pointed out that there was interference with the affairs of the United States.

The protest was based on the agreement, made in behalf of the Soviet government at the time of recognition, that no activity interfering with American affairs would be permitted.

Hull Declines Comment.

Press dispatches and other reports from Moscow, however, indicated that at least eight Americans participated in the convention program, discussing Communist organization activities in this country.

They indicated that Joseph Stalin was present when at least some of the discussion took place.

Secretary Hull yesterday declined to comment on the note, declaring that it spoke for itself. The State Department maintained complete silence awaiting a reply.

There was no indication of what would be done should the reply be considered unsatisfactory. The United States has charged that the

Agents Seize Morphine
Valued at $134,000

By the Associated Press.

The Customs Service yesterday announced seizure of 42 pounds of morphine at New York, valued at $134,000, which officials said was taken from the steamship Pipestone County.

The contraband was said to have been stored under a dummy and hatch covers, and was described as the largest seizure in the last two or three years. The port from which the vessel sailed was not stated.

It was Orville Jorgens, of the Phillies, whose pitching turned the Cardinals back yesterday.

In the American League, the Detroit Tigers protected their 1-2 game lead over the Yankees by splitting a double-header with the Athletics. The Yankees lost the first game of a double-header to the Chicago White Sox when Zeke Bonura stole home in the fifteenth inning, but won the nightcap, 7-5, in a seven-inning contest belated by darkness.

Washington and St. Louis were rained out and Cleveland won, 4 to 3, from Boston.

Heart Attack Fatal to Wife Of Connally

Collapsing in Elevator,
She Dies in Office of Texas Senator.

Smiles at Husband;
Had Gone to Visit Him
During Lull on Hill.

Mrs. Tom Connally, wife of the junior United States Senator from Texas, died on Capitol Hill at 6 p. m. yesterday.

Mrs. Connally was on her way to her husband's office when stricken with a heart attack. She collapsed in an elevator and was carried into Senator Connally's quarters.

Dr. George W. Calver, Capitol physician, was summoned. Ten minutes later Mrs. Connally died, but not before she had smiled at her husband.

Mrs. Connally, a native of Marlin, Tex., is survived by the Senator and a son, Ben, a lawyer in Houston, Tex.

Senator Connally made tentative arrangements to take the body of his wife to Marlin tonight.

Married in 1904.

Mrs. Connally, the former Louise Clarkson, was married to Senator Connally November 16, 1904. At that time Connally was a member of the Texas Legislature. Not long after their marriage he became prosecuting attorney of Falls County. She came to Washington when he was elected to the House of Representatives in the Sixty-fifth Congress.

Senator and Mrs. Connally have made their home at the Highland Apartments.

Death came during a recess in the Senate proceedings. Her husband had been in a long conference with Southern Senators over the cotton-loom legislation.

Word of Mrs. Connally's death spread rapidly through Capitol Hill and throughout the congressional set in Washington. Messages of condolence poured in from the wives of Senators and Representatives, among whom Mrs. Connally was very popular.

Mrs. Connally was one of the best liked women in Capitol Hill and a studied voice and piano at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music after she had been graduated from the Patten Seminary in Dallas, Tex.

The body of Mrs. Connally was taken from the Senate Office Building to the home of her father, Mr. J. H. Connally, at 630 G street.

Jail Threat Stirs
Rush for WPA Jobs

Johnson Expects 20,000
Places to Be Filled.

By the Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 26.—New York's "work or go to jail" policy for relief recipients produced what an official called "amazing" results in its first test today.

Applicants were reported by observers to be taking WPA jobs at the rate of one a minute in some offices. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator, said he had little doubt the week's quota of 20,000 jobs would be filled.

It appeared about 5,000 laborers would be moved from the relief rolls to jobs by the end of the day. When relief offices opened at 9 a. m., a line of men and women awaited at each to take the $5-a-month WPA jobs.

Over the week-end they had read a notice by Gen. Johnson, Mayor LaGuardia and other officials that those who refused work would first be cut off from relief and then, if they proved stubborn, be prosecuted for failure to support their families.

Kick by Horse Fatal
To N.Y. Woman in West

Buffalo, Wyo., Aug. 16.—Kicked on the head by a horse, Mrs. William S. Horton, daughter of a prominent New York city woman, was killed today in the HF-BR dude ranch here today.

Mrs. Horton, who was Mrs. Mary Warren Hewitt prior to her marriage three years ago to the son of Frank O. Horton, prominent dude rancher, was riding the horse when it ran away.

The woman dismounted and fell, but appeared to be safe until the animal wheeled about and kicked her. Her skull was fractured.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Horton is survived by her mother, Mrs. Helen Warren, of New York.

U. S. Bargains With Japanese Over Textiles

Negotiations Under Way
Here for Accord on Filipino Trade.

Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.

The United States and Japan are negotiating a "gentleman's agreement" seeking to restrict Japanese cotton textile exports to the Philippines.

An easing of economic and political friction growing from the island textile situation is a direct objective of the discussions. These facts were learned authoritatively yesterday.

Hiroshi Saito, the Japanese Ambassador, and Secretary of State Hull initiated the negotiations in talks covering the general phases of the question. Other American and Japanese officials are now actively engaged in drafting a mutually satisfactory agreement.

Revelation that active negotiations already are under way came in the wake of recommendations by the Cabinet textile committee to President Roosevelt that similar steps be instituted for an accord limiting the export of cheap Japanese textiles to the United States.

American cotton textile manufacturers have protested vigorously against the capture of American and Filipino markets by Japanese textiles and demanded protective action by this Government.

Tariff Action Proposed.

The Philippine Legislature on recommendation of Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy also has considered raising a tariff barrier against Japanese textiles as a remedy.

Officials declined to reveal what limitation or restriction suggestions and proposals have been made in the discussions. But they are admittedly attempting to reach an agreement by which the Japanese, who have captured the lion's share of the islands market in the last two years, will make a percentage reduction in their shipments.

Voluntary restrictions on exports of lead pencils and rag rugs to the United States were imposed by the Japanese as a result of previous conferences in which that control method was employed to solve a question which might otherwise have developed into a trade war.

The Cabinet committee, composed of Secretaries Roper, Hull, Wallace and Perkins, in recommending steps to control the increasing volume of Japanese textile trade to this country, urged they be exercised "preferably by means of a voluntary and friendly agreement with Japan on limitations of shipments of cotton products to the American market."

In the "gentlemen's agreement" on lead pencils the Japanese limited their exports to the approximate value of American cedar wood they imported for use in manufacturing pencils.

New Criterion Needed.

But the criterion would not hold in textile limitations, officials explained, as Japan purchases more American raw cotton than any other country or section of the world, and the value is many times the value of its textile exports here, or to the Philippines.

Although the Japanese made considerable inroads into American sales in the Philippines last year, the latest available figures show that American textiles have regained some of their lost ground.

In 1932 the United States supplied 72 per cent of Philippine cotton imports. Japan gradually captured the major business and reduced American sales to 38 per cent.

During the last six months, however, officials report a come-back for American textiles. Of total imports, 10 per cent came from other countries, and 51 per cent of the remainder, by value, were imported from the United States. Japan had some of the remaining 40.1 per cent.

Utility Regulation Made Law As President Signs Measure

All Interstate Power to Come Under Federal Control; Many Holding Firms Face Ban; Two Companies Act to Avoid U. S. Rule.

By the Associated Press.

Rigid Federal regulation of interstate utility business and a complete ban against many holding companies was made law yesterday by President Roosevelt.

He signed the utility holding company bill—most bitterly fought of any measure in the closing Congress—while a half dozen of those who led his Capitol Hill fight looked on.

Flashlights glowed and the President chatted genially with the on-lookers during the ceremony.

"This is the fastest bill I ever signed," remarked the Chief Executive, patting the document on his desk.

Hardly was the ink dry upon the new law before one of the organizations which fought hardest against its enactment was threatening to take the issue into the next presidential campaign. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Utility Investors, said in a statement that the law was regarded by investors as an attack upon "all investor-owned and privately-managed business."

Promises to Revive Fight.

He promised the issue would be heard again in the next campaign in a fight by citizens "against greedy political control and unconstitutional confiscation of private property."

And immediately the Hartford Light Co. and the Connecticut Power Co. cut off their interstate power transmission lines to avoid coming under Federal regulation.

Officials declined to predict how widespread such actions might become, but both the securities and power commissions said they had received no word of such steps.

In the group assembled about the President's desk as he signed the bill were Senators Wheeler (Democrat), Montana; Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky; Brown (Democrat), New Hampshire; Representative Rayburn (Democrat), Texas; Benjamin V. Cohen and Thomas D. Corcoran, two young Administrators.

Robinson Warns Senate of Roosevelt's Power to Adjourn Houses.

10-Cent Cotton
Loan Proposed

Compromise Measure Is Suggested at White House Meeting.

Senator Huey Long was engaged in a protracted speech in the Senate as this edition of The Post went to press. There were indications that he was prepared to speak for some time, thus delaying the expected quick clean-up of the third deficiency bill which stands in the way of adjournment.

By Robert C. Albright.

Warning by Majority Leader Robinson that the President might dissolve Congress under the Constitution, if a deadlock occurred, was made in the course of adjournment debate last night.

"I am not willing to leave this matter open and have the House placed in a position of passing its adjournment resolution twice, and the Senate rejecting it a second time, and incur the liability of having Congress sent home by the President under the Constitution," Robinson said.

No President ever has exercised this authority under article two, section three of the Constitution, which permits the President in case of disagreement between the two houses in respect to the time of adjournment to himself adjourn them to such time as he deems proper.

By this warning the Senate Democratic leader attempted to break the deadlock resulting from the controversy over cotton and wheat loans, which prevented the expected adjournment Saturday.

10-Cent Cotton Loan.

After two days of continuous conferences, Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson and the Agriculture Department simultaneously announced a plan for 10-cent loans on cotton and an "adjustment" to the cotton farmer bringing the total to 12 cents. Adjustment payments will be made up to next August 1, and will be based on the daily price average.

Coincident with the announcement, Robinson moved for reconsideration of the third deficiency bill, which had provided mandatory 12-cent loans on cotton and 1 1/2 cents a pound on wheat. The Senate called the House to return the papers for reconsideration. The House returned them at once.

Present strategy calls for passage of the deficiency appropriation measure without cotton and wheat loan features, and a "sine die" adjournment later tonight. The House adopted the adjournment resolution earlier in the day, and the Senate speedily followed suit.

Byner Indorses Plan.

The maneuver appeared likely to succeed, as Senator James F. Byrnes (Democrat), South Carolina, chief sponsor of the mandatory cotton loans, endorsed the proposed program. A split developed in the cotton bloc, however, when Senator Walter F. George (Democrat), Georgia, said the plan would help the shippers, but injure small dealers and merchants and ultimately "crucify" the farmer.

The compromise made no mention of wheat. This drew a sharp query from Senator Lewis B. Schellenbach (Democrat), Washington, who said wheat farmers of the Pacific Northwest require Government loans to market their product.

Swift rulings by Vice President John Garner forestalled an immediate floor controversy when Robinson asked for return of the controverted bill. Huey Long objected to such action by unanimous consent, whereupon Robinson moved for recall of the bill. Garner held the motion "not debatable" and it was agreed to.

The Senate recessed briefly until the papers were returned.

ers of 1/2-inch middling cotton to receive, because of Government aid, more than 12 cents per pound for their crop, and also for some to receive less than 12 cents per pound.

The new plan proposes a loan of 10 cents per pound for 1/2-inch middling cotton and the total received by growers of such cotton cannot exceed 12 cents per pound. It will make more certain the amount each grower will receive for his cotton.

Based on Average.

"Instead of making the adjustment payment on the basis of the four-month average of the 10-point spot markets, this adjustment agreement will now be based on the daily average of the 10-point spot markets. In other words, the adjustment payment will be made on the basis of the 10-point spot market on the actual day the cotton is sold by the receiver.

"These adjustment payments will be made through the cotton year up to August 1, 1936. As before stated, they will be made to those producers who have co-operated in the adjustment program and who agreed to participate in the 1935 crop program.

"This program of loans and adjustment on the 1935 crop will go into effect as soon as it is physically possible to set up the new machinery. The loan forms will be available for the 10-cent loan during the week of September 2. This will be restricted to actual production not in excess of the Bankhead allotments."

Senator Byrnes said he accepted the proposal because it not only offered 1 cent more in outright Government loans on cotton than the original plan, but would permit the farmer to collect at once, instead of waiting. He said it meant as "saving" of $56,000 to farmers.

The agreement followed a White House conference early in the afternoon between President Roosevelt and five cotton State Senators. The group returned to the Capitol and continued to confer. Later Speaker Byrnes and Chairman James P. Buchanan, of the House Appropriations Committee, who has vigorously opposed the cotton and wheat amendments to the third deficiency bill, were called in.

Under the plan proposed, the additional loan machinery would not be provided in the appropriations measure, but would be extended under present administrative authority.

When the Senate first convened at noon, it recessed immediately until 5 p. m. The House went to work immediately, however, to clear the controversial third deficiency bill from its table.

Sent to Committee.

Despite the solid opposition of the Georgia delegation, and some Southern members, led by Representative Carl Vinson (Democrat), of Georgia, Speaker Byrnes sent the embattled third deficiency bill to the Appropriations Committee. He said he exercised this discretion "in view of the tremendous importance of the legislation."

To inquiries by Vinson, Byrnes said it would not be in order to consider the bill on the floor.

Requesting that Byrnes take this action, Chairman Buchanan, of the Appropriations Committee, said:

"In view of the fact that amendments have been attached to the bill in the Senate which may involve the Government in an expense of a billion dollars and half or two billion dollars in the way of loans; in view of the fact that the finance corporation can not raise sufficient money even to take care of the cotton and wheat amendments under its authorization to issue debentures and securities, and in view of the fact that this amendment came to the House at 8 o'clock on the evening of the very day that the House and Senate had adopted a concurrent resolution to adjourn, I feel that these momentous amendments, involving the wealth and the welfare of the Nation, deserve thorough investigation and consideration by the committee."

Rebuke to Russia Opportune for Roosevelt; Borah Again Has the Last Laugh.

By Raymond Clapper

BIG talk by American Communists attending the All-World Congress of the Communist International at Moscow had a good deal to do with the decision of the United States to send a sharp note to the Soviet Union. Obscure and unimportant agitators from the United States turn up at Moscow and boast like conquering heroes.

Soviet officials made their mistake by not disavowing all such wild talk and by not giving notice that they looked with disapproval on any suggestion of interference with the form of government of the United States. Instead, from Stalin down, they sat on the platform and listened to such guff.

However, it has made grist for Mr. Roosevelt's mill.

He has been on the spot over Soviet relations for some time. Glowing promises of trade, made at the time of recognition, have not materialized. In sections of the press, in Congress, and among some civic organizations, there has been an increasing clamor that he break off relations.

On top of this the Republicans and critics of the New Deal generally have accused Mr. Roosevelt of covertly attempting to lead the United States toward communism. Much of his program has had to carry the onus of that charge. Frequently the President finds it necessary to reiterate, as he did in his address to the Young Democrats, that he favors the system of individual enterprise. So the blathering of American citizens attending the Moscow Communist meeting gives him a ready-made opportunity to spank the Soviets.

The spanking met with general approval in Washington.

The attitude of the Soviet government in the still unsuccessful debt negotiations has been unfortunate from the point of view of this government. On top of that unsatisfactory situation, Soviet indifference in the present incident will add further chill to American friendliness for the Soviet Union which, despite this country's intense antipathy toward Communism, was surprisingly warm at the time relations were resumed.

We decided, after swallowing very hard, that Russia could have any kind of a government it wanted. In turn we asked only that the Soviet Union let us plod along in our own blighted way with the kind of a government we wanted. The Soviets have a handsome chance to make a recovery. But it will have to be on the firm basis that if the American Constitution is to be tinkered with, it will be done at home, not in Moscow.

Senator Borah can't help looking a little smug since his colleague, the ambitious Senator Pope, barely escaped censure from the Senate for talking too much in Europe.

For years Senator Borah has been the only Senator from Idaho. True, Idaho has gone through the motions of sending a second Senator to Washington by way of complying with the Constitution, but it was always understood that Borah's silent partner never would attempt to emerge from the anonymity cast by the long shadow of the senior Senator's lionine mane. Borah, of course, made his international reputation as the leader of the Senate isolationists. Down with the League, down with the World Court, down with meddling in Europe, Nicaragua, China or anywhere else. As a picturesque touch Borah has refused tempting offers to travel abroad. He won't even visit Europe. That's how literal an isolationist he is.

Then along comes a Democratic Senator from Idaho, James Pinkney Pope. He'll show Borah up. Soon after he arrived in Washington he began issuing statements answering everything Borah said. Oldsters around the Senate thought that a little brash, but the Democrats prodded Pope on. He became active in the World Court, stepped into the limelight of the Senate munitions investigation.

Roosevelt Puts His Signature To Utilities Bill

Rigid Federal Control Over Interstate Power Is Made a Law.

tion attorneys, and Dozier De Vane, of the Power Commission.

"I think it is a good bill and I think it will do the job," said Rayburn as he emerged from the President's office.

Cohen and Corcoran were accredited by many with writing the first draft of the bill. It was greatly revised during the tug-of-war between the Senate and the House, but many of the principal features of the original were retained.

Both Cohen and Corcoran were targets in the congressional fight and Corcoran was hailed before a House committee on a charge by Representative Brewster (Republican) Maine, that he had attempted to force him to vote for holding company abolition.

Magill termed enactment of the bill "one more example of automatic dictatorship which seeks complete political control and bureaucratic domination of all industry."

Immediately after the bill had been signed into law, officials of the securities and power commissions set about close studies of the new act to determine what would be their first procedure.

Some officials, while declining to be quoted, said there had been intimations from representatives of a large part of the utility industry that they would assign men to co-operate in working out regulations in connection with the measure.

The act calls for Government supervision of the issuance of securities, sales of power and financing and operating methods of utility holding companies that have an interstate business.

Holding companies in general would be abolished with the exception that two holding companies might be erected upon one system of adjacent operating companies.

Subsidiaries and affiliates of holding companies would be required to perform engineering, accounting, construction and other services for operating companies at cost. Advocates of the law argued that in the past operating companies had been compelled to subscribe to such services and pay high fees for them.

The securities commission would rule on what assets should be used by holding companies in issuing bonds.

Wholesale rates for electricity sold in interstate commerce would be subject to regulation, but gas would be subject to regulation only insofar as holding companies are concerned and not with respect to rates.

As for the United States going in to help England and France—or does France have some secret understanding which gave Mussolini the wink to go ahead in Ethiopia?—put down a relatively minor aggressor like Italy, it may be recalled that once upon a time we went to Europe to make the world safe for democracy. And now look at the damned thing!

Can be taken up next winter. The important thing was to serve flat notice now before our itinerant emissaries became entangled as Col. House did before we went into the World War.

Just how far Mr. Davis would go has never been clear, but some Senators suspect that Europe gained the impression that the United States would throw money and munitions, if not men, into another European fight. That, presumably, is why the State Department and the White House wanted the neutrality resolution fixed so that Roosevelt could let arms go to one side and not the other instead of being compelled to cut them off from both sides.

If there is going to be any mixing in, Congress would like to be consulted.

Sentiment in both Houses is now registered emphatically to the effect that we do not want to intervene. That apparently is what Congress was trying to say in the neutrality resolution. After further study the fine points of the bill will be considered.

Foreign Trade, Heavy Industry Gain in July

Import Excess Leaves Adverse Balance of $4,327,000.

By the Associated Press.

Unusual July gains over June in both exports from and imports to the United States, and continuing improvement in current domestic business conditions were reported yesterday by the Commerce Department.

The department particularly stressed improvement in domestic heavy goods industries.

While exports ordinarily decline 1 per cent and imports 3 per cent from June to July, exports increased this year about 2 per cent and imports 13 per cent.

Imports were greater than exports, to leave an unfavorable balance of $4,327,000 for the month, compared with a favorable balance in July last year of $34,443,000. The favorable balance for the year so far was $23,214,000, compared with $206,653,000 for the first seven months of 1934.

Regarding domestic business conditions, the department reported retail trade "continued to show improvement" over last year in the week ended Wednesday. The statement was based on advices from 33 major cities.

"Evidence of improvement" in heavy industries was reported in many important industrial centers. Refractory industries around Pittsburgh were "running slightly better than a year ago" and "in the durable goods field in Chicago competent authorities estimated the pick-up should result in a gain of at least 15 per cent of normal."

Dallas Police Bone Geography And History for '36 Centennial

Must Be Able to Answer Visitors' Questions at Texas Exposition.

By the Associated Press.

Dallas Tex.—Members of the Dallas police force may be wishing soon they had paid more attention to their history courses as boys.

"When did Texas gain her independence from Mexico?"

"How old is the Alamo?"

"How long was Texas a republic?"

These are some of things pertaining to Texas history which will have to be learned by officers here before the centennial opens next year.

The policemen meet each week for regular classes. Officers will be specially trained to handle large crowds, heavier traffic and to answer all questions which visitors may ask concerning the history of Texas or the centennial exposition.

The officers' first lessons will be a thorough study of the geography of Dallas. They will be required to learn every street, nook and corner of the city before they will receive a passing grade.

Next, the men will delve into Texas history and will have to relearn what they probably forgot since leaving high school. All points of the State's history having bearing on the centennial will be drilled into the memory of every policeman.

The third phase of the special centennial instruction will deal with the exposition itself. The buildings, grounds and all

Il Duce Confers With Leaders On British Step

Expected to Tell England That Fleet Does Not Frighten Italy.

By the Associated Press.

With the Italian Army, Bolzano, Italy, Aug. 26.—Premier Mussolini received his ministers and under-secretaries informally tonight in what was described as a preliminary to an extraordinary cabinet meeting on the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

Il Duce, after taking ranking command of the vast military maneuvers near Brenner Pass, was said authoritatively to have discussed both the domestic and international situation with reference to East African questions.

Mussolini originally summoned his cabinet members, virtually all of whom were here for the great war games, to meet tomorrow. It was announced officially tonight, however, that the cabinet would be convened instead Wednesday afternoon.

Gesture Toward Powers.

Il Duce decided to spend tomorrow morning making what was regarded as a gesture toward re-establishment of the Stresa front—unity between England, France and Italy.

He invited British and French military missions, and British and French newspaper correspondents to accompany him on an inspection of the scene of the war maneuvers.

Bolzano was attacked tonight by the air force of the "Blue" Army, and the presence of Il Duce did not save the city and three "Red" Army from a severe blank shelling.

Under cover of pouring rain, Blue airplanes dropped a hail of bombs on the city. Bolzano was shrouded in a subdued blue light, and was scarcely visible from the air.

Under the downpour, Bolzano firemen and soldiers rushed to aid sections theoretically struck by bombs, while anti-aircraft guns kept up a deafening fire.

Political observers were certain that the cabinet would discuss the decision by the British admiralty to send its Mediterranean fleet quarters near the Suez Canal.

Due to Reaffirm Stand.

There was a possibility that the cabinet would issue a statement indicating that Italy has not been intimidated by the British gesture.

All telephone lines to Rome were taken up completely for several hours with official calls.

Newspapers of many nations stormed and stamped, but were forced to stand aside while ministers and sub-secretaries informed themselves of late developments in the international and domestic fields, in preparation for the cabinet meeting.

Il Duce appeared in good humor as he talked with generals this afternoon and inaugurated numerous public works.

He had a wreath on the monument to his former employer, Cesare Battisti, from whom he worked as editor at Trento, near here, when it belonged to Austria. Battisti was shot by Austrians during the World War.

The driving rain interfered with the military operations in a manner reminiscent of World War times, but did not prevent a further advance of the attacking Blue forces toward the Austrian frontier.

The advance was hurried but unchecked by the desperately fighting Red force.

Man Given 6 Mos. In Police Assault

3 Accused Confederates Demand Jury Trials.

George F. Brown, one of five men accused of assaulting William Bidwell, policeman of the Ninth Precinct, Friday night, received six months' sentence yesterday when he was arraigned before Judge Robert E. Mattingly in Police Court. Brown said he had no fixed address.

Three of the others, Ralph Van Pelt, 20, 122 U street southeast, Robert Van Pelt, 24, 1221 Eleventh street northwest, and Eugene Hawkins, 20, 1108 H street northeast, all demanded jury trials. Their bond was set at $500. Joseph O'Connor, 221 F street northeast, was acquitted.

Bidwell, with both his upper and lower jaws wired where they had been broken, testified that he was attacked at Thirteenth and H streets northeast when he attempted to place the Van Pelt brothers under arrest for disorderly conduct. Ralph Van Pelt is said to be employed in the Interior Department and gave the name of "Ralph Murden" at the time of his arrest.

'Anti-Soviet' Talk In U.S. Is Assailed

non-interference pledge has been violated and has asked for definite assurance that there will be no further violations.

Some observers felt that, in view of the fact that another world Communist meeting probably will not be held for some years, it would not be difficult for the Soviet government to give such assurances.

Withdrawal Threatened.

Should the reply not go far, however, the United States would be in a position of either carrying out its threat of serious consequences or of receding from its position. It was generally felt that, because of the unusually strong language of the note, the consequences could be hardly short of withdrawal of recognition.

It was pointed out that the United States already has held in abeyance its original elaborate plans for construction of an embassy in Moscow and for establishment of consulates in that country for the purpose of handling the originally-expected trade with the Soviet.

Trade Not Borne Out.

Glowing predictions of the result of Soviet recognition have not been borne out. Trading on a large scale with the Soviet Union was precluded by the failure of the debt payment negotiations. The United States agreed to a considerable reduction in the amount of loan and to years. After failure to reach an agreed debt negotiations were abandoned last January. The debt is estimated at about $700,000,000.

A week after the negotiations were called off the United States proceeded to reduce its embassy staff. Naval and air attaches were recalled and a reduction was made in the personnel of the embassy. The consulate general also was abolished.

At present, the United States has in Russia, besides Ambassador Bullitt, a counselor, four secretaries and two other officials who act in the combined capacity of consuls and secretaries. There are no consular offices outside of Moscow.

official archives to Djibouti, French Somaliland.

This action was followed immediately by a suggestion from the Belgian Minister, as dean of the Diplomatic Corps, that Emperor Haile Selassie incorporate the British, French, German and Belgian legations into a special international zone immune from bombardment.

These legations are situated in the same general area, of about 15 square miles. The area does not include the American Legation, which is on the other side of the city.

The Belgian Minister also asked the Emperor to give the American and other foreign legations permission to bring in emergency troops, as the British are doing.

"It was believed that the 'king of kings' would approve this suggestion, provided that the incoming forces would be of moderate numbers.

Imperial Guard Increased.

The Emperor increased the imperial guard, which protects the city, from 3,000 to 6,000. The capital police force numbers were raised from 3,000 to 5,000.

Five hundred special detectives were appointed to round up spies and suspicious characters. Uneasy residents began evacuating the capital, fearing immediate air raids after the week-end instructions from the Emperor.

The populace instituted its evacuation in accordance with verbal orders from the Emperor, without awaiting the suggested deadline of seven days after any formal declaration of war.

In view of the possibility of an air raid or a siege, the foreign legations began laying in emergency foodstuffs—an action followed quickly by others determined to remain in Addis Ababa.

Soaring commodity prices resulted. The famous Indian firm of Mohammed Ali, entrusted with supplying food for British troops stationed here, cornered the sugar market, which rose 33 per cent.

Italians Advised to Leave.

The Italian Legation advised all its nationals, except those whose presence is imperative, to leave.

Emanuel Ghanothakis, most prominent Italian merchant in the city, departed for Djibouti.

Countering Mussolini's dispatch of additional troops to Eritrea, the Emperor sent a quantity of arms and munitions to waiting warriors on the outskirts of the capital.

These were carried laboriously through the dead of night on the shoulders of natives whose white shawls, bare heads and bare feet made them resemble ghosts.

As the bearers became exhausted from their burdens, other natives took up the load in relays. A virtual panic was caused among merchants when the National Bank refused to give out foreign currency.

The Franco-Ethiopian Railway thereafter declined accept Ethiopian travelers from passengers, insisting upon French francs.

The "Conquering Lion of Judah" faced new financial difficulties, the thaler falling sharply after his American adviser, Everett W. Colson, recommended that the Emperor forbid that foreign money leave the country.

The silver thaler, which was formerly 2.60 to the United States dollar, dropped to 3.20.

Seeks to Calm Natives.

invade Emperor Haile Selassie's domain.

Britain watched American reaction to European war preparations. The foreign office exercised utmost caution to avoid seeking more American cooperation than President Roosevelt is ready to offer. However, consultation between Washington and London will be continued.

Antiwar Leader Leaves.

Thus far the foreign office refrains from asking the United States to reaffirm the declaration made by Norman Davis at Geneva in 1933 that the United States would abstain from collective action against an aggressor, but it was assumed the pronouncement still represents Washington policy.

The first member of a Franco-British antiwar delegation which may be joined later by an Italian left London for Ethiopia to investigate the spot measures which could be enforced to strengthen Emperor Haile Selassie against an Italian attack. Maj. Neil Hunter, royal army, retired, was the pioneer. He will be joined in Paris by a French former service man.

In Italian anti-Fascist will complete the party.

John Strachey, well-known British writer who was expelled from the United States last spring, is chairman of the British movement sponsoring the delegation.

The World Anti-War Committee, headed by Henri Barbusse, noted French liberal now gravely ill in Moscow, has summoned an emergency international conference in Paris September 3—One day before the League of Nations council reconvenes—to halt war in Africa.

aroused by Saturday's blunt instructions outlining precautions against air attacks.

He instructed tribal chiefs to explain to the populace that there was no need to fear airplanes abnormally, because anti-aircraft guns have been placed on the hills surrounding the capital.

The Emperor also directed authorities to explain to the untutored tribes, many of which regard the airplane as a supernatural object sent from heaven to destroy them, how the ships have power to leave the ground like birds and drop bombs.

As a graphic lesson in this respect, the Emperor's personal plane has flown daily over the capital.

The "King of Kings" directed that no Ethiopian employed by Americans and other foreigners shall be liable to military service.

He also repeated his warning that any Ethiopian attacking or menacing Italians or other foreigners would be shot.

To frustrate any possible attack, four native armed guards accompanied the Italian official courier when he departed for Djibouti.

Seat Pleasant Widow Found Slain in Home

Bullet Through Head Causes Death of 'Quiet' Woman, 49; Man Being Sought.

Teulon's name was scratched out with a pencil.

As throngs of curious neighbors and townsfolk gathered around the tumble-down fence, Seat Pleasant and Prince Georges County police began a search for a man with whom Mrs. Teulon had been seen. They described him as a railroad brakeman, about 38 years old, tall and slender, who "did considerable drinking." Police said they believed the gun found beneath the dead woman's body belonged to the man they sought for questioning.

A Friendly Person.

To most of the neighbors in Maryland Park Mrs. Teulon was quiet and friendly. When she went to shop, which was at least once a week, she bowed and spoke pleasantly.

Her husband died about three years ago. He was a carpenter, but illness had made him idle. When he died Mrs. Teulon made her principal living from the tomatoes and corn and other vegetables and the poultry she raised. Frequently she was seen at work wearing an old straw hat.

The man for whom police instituted search was seen with Mrs. Teulon about a week ago.

"Mrs. Teulon passed here last Monday afternoon," recalled Mrs. Nellie Webster, a friend.

"Come in," said I.

"I can't," she answered, smiling. "I just got word so-and-so is coming."

Mrs. Webster used the name of the suspect.

"She never harmed anybody, never annoyed anybody," Mrs. Webster continued. "I hope whoever killed her will get what's coming to him."

The body of Mrs. Webster, who was of medium height and brunette, was removed to a Seat Pleasant undertaking establishment, where an autopsy will be performed.

She had lived in the old house for many years with her husband. Originally, neighbors said, she came from Charles County, Md., where a sister of hers now lives.

projects will be housing. Because of slowness in obtaining land it will not be possible to let contracts on many housing projects within the allotted time.

The orders also apparently jeopardized the vast plans for rural electrification, grade elimination and road work. It appears that many of these projects can not be under way within the limited time prescribed.

In connection with the "deadline" orders President Roosevelt also further curtailed the powers of Secretary Ickes as Public Works Administrator. He told Ickes that in the future all allocations under the old PWA fund, and all cancellations and rescissions must be handled through the Works Allotment Board.

FAVORING the Civil Service in lieu of the spoils system, Representative William M. Citron, of Connecticut, declared he and members of Congress in general would prefer to have the whole Government organization under Civil Service. In an address sponsored by the A. F. G. E., Representative Citron said:

"We Congressmen would be much better off if the whole system were changed to Civil Service, with positions obtainable through competitive examination and retention and advancement dependent on merit."

"In times like these members of Congress are besieged by thousands of men and women, eager to find employment, and hopeful that we can help them. We can not possibly help them all, and when we fall we are charged with being interested only in the spoils system. Don't think for a moment that that is so. The Civil Service system not only means good government but it would rid us of many headaches."

After paying high tribute to Government workers, Representative Citron continued:

"For good government, an efficient personnel is necessary, and experience has demonstrated that morale and efficiency are directly aided by proper wages and working conditions. It is to the interest of the people of the United States that Government employees should be fairly treated, not only because Uncle Sam should pride himself on being a model employer but because the work of the Nation can best be carried on by employees who have security in their work and incentive to do better work. After paying high tribute to Government workers, Representative Citron continued:

"Among the plant pathologists, Bureau of Plant Industry, who have sailed for Europe to attend the International Botanical Congress in Amsterdam in September are Dr. Charlotte Elliott, Miss Nellie W. Nance, Dr. Neil E. Stevens, Miss Lucia McCulloch and Miss Florence Hedges.

Perhaps few persons know that Walter Studdiford, Employment Service, Labor, is the "Prof." Studdiford, who is accompanist for "East Lynne," which is being staged at National Press Club ballroom by the Willard Players.

Studdiford has been playing the piano since he was 3 years old, and when he was only 9 played for President Wilson at a private concert.

In keeping with the atmosphere of the gay nineties, when pianists for burlesques and minstrels were called "professors," the Willard Players have attached the honorary

"professor" to the accompanist.

For a number of years he has been a member of the Arts and University Clubs. He composed the music for the Willard Players' "The Queen's Gambit."

The Gossip Truth.

Hollywood, Aug. 26.
MARY PICKFORD taking a ride on the back seat of a motorcade... Walter Wanger is making color tests of Peggy Conklin and horses for his technical color flicker, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine"... Marlene Dietrich and John Gilbert together at the Hollywood Bowl... Groucho and Chico Marx will sign for the radio, broadcasting for Hudson Motors... Rachel Crothers, needing an actor to play a bit in "Splendor," was told to look at Harvey Stevens, who is in the flicker, "After Office Hours"... Miss Crothers went to a projection room at United Artists and the picture was put on for her... After the flicker was over, Miss Crothers said: "All he does is sit around a newspaper office. I don't like him."... Rachel Crothers had been considering Clark Gable for the bit in "Splendor"—and wouldn't give him the job.

When "Anything Goes" is made into a flicker, there will be three additional songs, and they will be written by Friedrich Hollaender and Leo Robin. Two of the new numbers are for Bing Crosby, and one for Ethel Merman... There is still some question whether the "You're the Top" duet will be used... According to the initial announcement of the deal, Cole Porter was to write any additional songs needed... Michael Curtis is a director who says some amusing things on the set. The other day he barked at an assistant: "The next time I send a dumb guy for something, I go myself."

SAM GOLDWYN has scenarios read to him at his conferences which should be filmed... Julia Faye, Kathleen Key and Jerome Storm working as extras in "The Tale of Two Cities"... Aline MacMahon, being stopped by an autograph seeker, says to him, "but you don't know who I am. Why do you want my autograph?" "Because I'm from Chicago," was the answer... Jack McGowan and Sid Silvers, who clicked with the scenario of "Broadway Melody," had their options taken up and are now writing, "This Time It's Love," in which Jessie Mathews will make her Hollywood debut... Carl Laemmle, Jr., and Jane Wyatt trying to be romantic... Edith Wilkerson relates the newest Dorothy Parker yarn which concerns the large blue hat that Dorothy has been wearing for many years. No doubt, says Edith, at one time the chapeau stood way out to there and was right per, but now it just droops and droops... The other night some one slipped the brim of the hat and said, "nice little hat you have there, Dorothy." "Oh," said D. Parker, "you mean this one. This is the one that can vote."

Herman Shumlin intends to take "The Children's Hour" to London and put it on before a special society, despite the ban... The Broadway troupe will play it there before they go on tour here... Lillian Hellman will write the scenario of "The Children's Hour" in New York. The flicker version will have the two schoolteachers in love with the same fellow... Harry Richmond has been out dancing with Claire Windsor, Hazel Forbes and Pat Bellamy—but on different nights... A producer returned a script to a writer and said: "Your scenario has much in it that is new and beautiful. The only trouble is that the stuff that is new is not beautiful and the stuff that is beautiful is not new."

MAE WEST and Jack Larue night clubbing together... Mae's flicker, "Klondike Lou," goes into production this week... Gertrude Niesen made her debut at the Club Continental and made a big hit... Norman Krasna doesn't go with a gal unless Eddie Buzzell likes her also... Adolphe Menjou entertains on the set by dishing out a new type of Mexican dialect chatter called Cholo... Here are a few of his remarks: "I told him for a job and he asked me no... How do you cut your finger? You burn it?... I know when you leave because I saw you went... I am crossing a bridge. I hear a splash. I turn around—and it's me"... A flicker was scheduled to go into production. The director was assigned, the sets were up, and the cast was ready. Every one concerned was then informed that the flicker would be postponed because the script wasn't ready. Keene Thompson said: "Why not shoot around the script for a couple of weeks?"

Lawrence Tibbett is making "Metropolitan" and in it he is supposed to sing the aria, "Vesti la Giubba." Tibbett phoned Darryl Zanuck and asked that he be excused from singing this aria in the picture. He explained to Zanuck that he is a barytone and that "Vesti la Giubba" is a tenor aria. Tibbett said that he could sing it, but he believed that the tenors would resent him doing it... Zanuck listened and agreed to substitute another aria in the flicker... Tibbett then went back to the set and the company manager was informed that Tibbett would not have to sing this number and told why... The company manager became very angry and shouted: "If I find the guy who told Tibbett that was a tenor aria, I'll dismiss him."

Heart Attack on Beach Is Fatal to R. K. Ogle

R. K. Ogle, 65, a member of the economic staff of the Federal Trade Commission, died yesterday of a heart attack at Ocean View, Va., according to an Associated Press dispatch. Stricken while on the beach with his wife, he died before medical aid could be summoned. Mr. and Mrs. Ogle arrived at Ocean View last Saturday for a few days' vacation. The shock of her husband's death has prevented Mrs. Ogle from announcing funeral arrangements.

Mr. Ogle, who began work at the Federal Trade Commission in 1918 on the coal commission, was recently made an accountant in the economic department.

X-RAY SYSTEM REVEALS ENORMOUS DIFFERENCE

IN THE LOWEST-PRICED CARS

SEE with your own eyes how the 1936 LAFAYETTE is bigger, stronger, safer, in a dozen vital ways!

Before you put your money into any low-priced car, you have a right to know WHAT'S INSIDE all low-priced cars. And now, through the sensational new X-Ray System, any Nash-LaFayette dealer has a way of showing you!

The X-Ray System reveals quickly, in fascinating new pictures, exactly what you get in all of the lowest-priced cars. You will see without fear or favor the things that high-priced cars include, the things that low-priced cars leave out... And you see, too, that LaFayette alone in the lowest-priced field gives you 6 or 8 vital features of engineering that expensive cars never omit!

A seven-bearing crankshaft, for example, and rifle-drilled connecting rods that lubricate each cylinder separately with every stroke of the piston! Oversized hydraulic brakes, big enough to stop a truck! A complete, seamless, one-piece, all-steel body! It's a great big 6-passenger car with wider front seats than high-priced cars and more headroom than in cars costing over $2,000!

There's just one big reason why you get all this EXTRA value in the 1936 LaFayette. Nash is out to win America on sales alone! We believe that Americans know automobiles... that when they SEE what's INSIDE LaFayette (and what's in other cars) LaFayette will be the winner! The Nash Motors Company, Kenosha, Wisconsin.

No car within $400 gives you ALL these vital features

1. A seven-bearing crankshaft.
2. Full pressure lubrication—with rifle-drilled connecting rods.
3. Complete, seamless, one-piece all-steel body, top, sides and floor with girder-steel frame.
4. Oversized hydraulic brakes actually as large as those on one of America's leading 1½ ton trucks.
5. Aluminum alloy pistons with four piston rings and Invar Struts.
6. Both redistribution of weight and Synchronized Springing on all four wheels.

OUT TO WIN AMERICA ON VALUE $595 ALONE! AND UP F.O.B. FACTORY

WASHINGTON'S HOME NEWSPAPER

On the Air Today

How would you like to see one of the most popular of the air shows as it goes on the air? There was a time two or three years ago when a seat was to be had for the asking. When Aunt Mathilda and Sister Susie went to New York for a few days the procedure was to pick up the tickets for the desired show a day or two in advance.

Not so today. The "radio theater" has become an entertainment institution and if you wish to see Maj. Bowes and his amateurs, for example, as they go through their hour on the air, you apply at least two weeks in advance for the coveted seats. Both networks present at least two or three radio shows a night before audiences of several hundred. It is their applause which is heard between numbers on the air.

And despite what your personal preference might be, thousands of persons who visit New York but once a year would rather see Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians at the CBS playhouse than the best music show on Broadway. As the new fall and winter radio shows approach, with more "big names" than ever before, demands for tickets for the radio presentations are increasing. It is expected that the sponsors soon will take over distribution of these "passers" entirely. Not even the network officials will have a hand in doing them out.

Speaking of fall and winter radio fare, prospects are shaping up for the best season in the history of broadcasting. Soon the Mills Brothers, Elen Brothers, Helen Hayes, Grace Moore, Jack Benny, Kate Smith, Al Pearce and Gang, Lawrence Tibbett, Lum and Abner, Sigmund Romberg, Deems Taylor, Phil Dwyer, Phil Cook, Fred Allen and several others, already established as radio favorites, will be back on your dial regularly. Eddie Cantor and Jimmie Wallington are scheduled for an opening soon. Eddie Duchin (without fire chief Wynn) it is understood will present an entirely new type of fire chief program, beginning October 1. Other programs to have premieres within the next six weeks include the Atwater Kent Hour with its tops in serious talent; Nielsa Goodella, the "one girl show," musical footnotes, rendezvous musicale and Hammerstein's Music Hall—all general music shows. The National Barn Dance has been renewed and Easy Aces become a night program twice a week about the first of October. Art Kassel and his orchestra will back up the Mills Brothers in their new program and a Hal Tooten sports talk comes as extra measure.

On the sustaining side of the business, N. B. C. announces: Masquerade, a daily drama; Great Moments in History, Your Child, Magic of Speech, General Federation of Women's Clubs, N. B. C. Music Appreciation Hour, Our American Schools, Music and American Youth, National Vespers and the Catholic Hour. And C. B. S. has not yet been heard from.

Tonight, Senator Nye discusses the "Kellogg Peace Pact and Neutrality." WJWS, at 10. Lud Gluskin, WJWS, at 8, presents an arrangement of popular tunes which had their origin in European countries, including "Lying in the Hay" and "When Day is Done," which

Something Old, Something New on Warner Bros. Production Schedule for 1935-36

List of 60 Big Shows Coming Here Disclosed

Bowes Amateurs Enjoying Busy Week; Other Amusement News.

Reprinted From Yesterday's Last Edition.
By Gerald G. Gross.
Substituting for Nelson B. Bell.

The brothers Warner, never before known for their sprinting propensities, are planning to do some gamut running this season. They are going to run the gamut from Rudy Vallee to Boris Karloff, from "Anthony Adverse" to "Shipmates Forever," according to an excited announcement by John J. Payette, general zone manager.

Five dozen feature-length pictures will constitute the 1935-36 releases of Warner Bros.-First National and Cosmopolitan Productions. Mr. Payette states. Then he continues:

"Warner Bros. have spared neither expense, time nor effort in setting up the most ambitious program ever attempted. (Yes, yes, go on.) The stories on our schedule are widely diversified, ranging from red-blooded action pictures through comedy, romance, drama and music. We also are keeping close watch on current events and our studios are maintaining a flexible schedule in order to be able to take immediate advantage of new plays and stories of a timely nature which may come along during the year."

Best Sellers Picturized.
Six Cosmopolitan Productions, two of them starring Marion Davies, are included in the list. Among the five dozen are cinematic versions of ten Broadway plays and 23 published stories. Jobs will be provided for 21 stars, 75 featured performers and you guess how many extras.

Novelists have contributed "Anthony Adverse" (Hervey Allen), "Captain Blood" (Rafael Sabatini), "The Green Light" (Lloyd C. Douglas), and "Dr. Socrates" (W. R. Burnett).

Lord Tennyson's famous poem was the inspiration for "The Charge of the 600," which is said to be one of the more elaborate pieces on the 1935-36 program. (By the way, who remembers the picturization of "Enoch Arden" many years back?)

Patrons of the Earle, Metropolitan and the Warners' neighborhood houses in Washington may look forward to James Cagney as "Frisco Kid," Rudy Vallee in "Let's Pretend," and Kay Francis in "I Found Stella Parrish."

Proving that child prodigies are still in vogue, "I Found Stella Parrish" will have, besides Miss Francis, Sybil Jason, age five and a half. Proving that the "G-Man" had isn't done yet there will be "Special Agent," which Mr. Payette says is "based on the heroic but little known activities of the Intelligence Unit of the United States Department of Internal Revenue."

Keeler-Powell Team Again.

Proving that Hollywood is still a sucker for a uniform, the five dozen will include "Shipmates Forever," spawned at Annapolis just like the current feature at the Earle. (By the way, who remembers the days when Emory Johnson was glorifying the policeman, the fireman, the railroad, etc., on the screen?) Proving that the wireless remains an important factor in the movie industry, there will be "Radio Jam-boree," which, the aforementioned zone manager avers, will have "the greatest aggregation of big radio stars ever gathered together in one picture."

Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler will be co-starred in "Colleen" as well as in "Shipmates Forever." Everett Marshall and Dolores del Rio are teamed in "I Live for Love." Other stars and featured players en route here for the W. Bros. new season include Leslie Howard, Joe E. Brown, Boris Karloff, Warren William, Claudette Colbert, Joan Blondell, Bette Davis, Al Jolson, Pat O'Brien, Edward G. Robinson, Guy Kibbe, Jean Muir and Ricardo Cortez.

Poetry for Today.

This column's Markham, Va., correspondent addresses Nelson B. Bell, whom illness had removed from his desk for a short period, as follows:

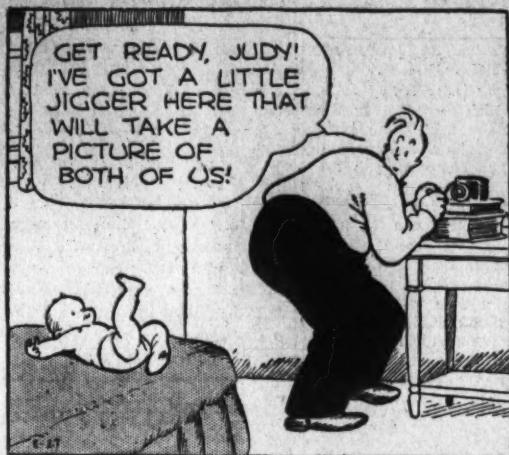

It might be of interest to you to know
That The Post follows me wherever I go.
In person I am unable to vote
So I am hastily sending you this little note
To say I hope "Smiling Thru"
Will again be on the screen
(And that by countless numbers it will be seen).

It is interesting, well-balanced and one's interest does keep

Giving those who so wish a good chance to weep.
So, Mr. Bell, whatever you can
I hope you will do
To make us all happy again in
"Smiling Thru."
Nice rhyme, Miss Tacie Bolen, nice rhyme.

Maj. Bowser's celebrated troupe is in the midst of a memorable week at Loew's Fox. On Friday the company of alleged amateurs performed impromptu for Commissioners Sultan and Hazen. Saturday night the Bowsters excursioned to Annapolis and after entertaining at the midshipmen's Second Class Night celebration in Bangor Hall, took a nocturnal sight-seeing tour of the academy. To-night the commissioners will reciprocate Friday's visit by taking in the last show as guests of honor. At 10:15 p. m. a group of the "amateurs" will present a special broadcast over WMAL, Jack Squires officiating. Tomorrow and Wednesday afternoons 9-year-old Veronica Minnow, a member of Maj. Bowser's aggregation who is prevented by local ordinance from doing her stuff on the stage this week, will give piano recitals at Kilt's Music Store. The time is 12:30 p. m. each day. It's free and the public is invited.

Bess Davis Schreiner, crier for "Androcles and the Lion," which the Washington Community Players will present in the Monument Grounds Sylvan Theater tomorrow night, thinks the second act is going to be rather swell. (Nor is she unfavorably disposed, for that matter, toward the prologue and first act.)

The second act, she points out, should be played "just outside the box of the Emperor Nero" and "in the arena where the gladiators fight and where martyrs are thrown to the lions." So, she continues, the entire second act will be played outside the Emperor's box "with the beautiful back stage section of the Sylvan Theater used as the arena and with the arena scenes played invisibly but audibly by the cast."

Too, she reminds that Ted Freter will be a lion and that the Players have had no luck in their quest of a team of oxen, which could be used in the first act.

The Columbia Players are holding a membership meeting at the Mount Pleasant Library, Sixteenth and Lamont streets northwest, at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow and they want it known that all prospective talent is invited. If you can act, direct, stage hand, design costumes, prompt, handle properties or do anything else (except yodel, we presume) either be present or telephone Eileen Fowler, Adams 2411. If you come as an actor, be prepared to read, the announcement advises. Tomorrow will be tryout night, indeed, for the New Theater Group also will be testing talent for "Peace on Earth," scheduled for production this fall. Time: 8 p. m. Place: Harrington Hotel.

Regarding the Potomac.
The summer's second Gold Cup Showboat Cruise will be held on the Potomac tonight to raise funds for the coming President's Cup Regatta. For entertainment there will be instrumental specialties, blues singing, deck dancing and numerous other features. The boat is the City of Washington, the cruise lasts three hours, the tariff is $1 and tickets may be bought at the Willard Hotel, Mrs. Dorsey's Bureau, auto clubs and the Wilson Line wharf.

Speaking of rivers, the sailing of the steamer Potomac tonight will mark the eighth anniversary of Bernie Jarboe's "Night Hawks," popular dance orchestra which has been playing for moonlight cruises this summer. A big birthday cake has been ordered.

A Tip for Cinderella.

Bodil Rosing used to be a waitress in a Washington restaurant. . . . She was an actress "at liberty," as the profession puts it, and she and her family had to eat so Miss Rosing took the restaurant job. . . . One day, the story goes, President Wilson left her a $250 tip. . . . She told a reporter, the incident was published and she got fired. . . . People flocked to the cafe to be served by the same hand that served the President, but the waitress, sore, went to Hollywood. . . . Bodil Rosing, the same, stars in the forthcoming Fox film entitled "Thunder in the Night." . . . She is Danish, her family is known as the Barrymores of Denmark and her first screen role was as a scrubwoman in "Pretty Ladies."

Pierpoint Family Holds Reunion, 100 Attending

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Leesburg, Va., Aug. 26. — One hundred descendants of Henry Pierpoint, who came to this country from France in 1635, were present at the second annual reunion of the National Pierpoint Association yesterday at the ancestral home at Paconian Springs, near here, where six generations of Pierpoints have resided. This reunion marked the 300th anniversary of the coming of the first Pierpoint to America.

Religious service was held in the morning in the Friends Meeting house in Waterford, where many of the Pierpoint ancestors worshipped. A picnic luncheon was served at the Pierpoint homestead. Those present came from Washington, D. C.; Alexandria, White Plains, N. Y.; Martinsburg, Fairmont and other sections of West Virginia. The oldest in the group was John Pierpoint, 89, of Fairmont.

Oil Skin Cape Is Convenient And Practical

25-Piece Beverage Sets Are Priced at 84 Cents on Sale Here.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

THERE are numerous answers to the rain cloak question, but none with more practical appeal than the oilskin cape. This cape, loosely about your shoulders and hangs in comfy folds to a few inches below your dress. It's so light you may easily wear one over your heavy coat without feeling in the least stuffy and bulky. It folds up into such a little package that you may carry it in an oilskin pouch (which comes with the cape) and keep it in the pocket of your car—or even in the pocket of your sport coat.

Shoppers who carry their antipathy for umbrellas to the point of defying rain-laden clouds without one will turn with relief to the convenient cape.

Children who must be scolded into wearing raincoats are delighted with these transparent capes. They come in green, brown, blue, red, and natural, and may be found in the notions department of a downtown store.

25-Piece Beverage Sets.

NO MATTER how much bargain proof armor you wear on your shopping trip, you will find it easily pierced by the 25-piece beverage sets priced at 84 cents.

Imagine that! You get a large three-quart pitcher, 8 ice-tea glasses, 8 water glasses and 8 fruit juice glasses. The design of this glassware is called "bamboo optic," which simply means clear glass with a series of ridges separated by bands of smooth surface. They are unusually attractive and certainly a phenomenal buy.

Spoons for Odd Dishes.

THERE ARE spoons and spoons, of every type, all sizes, for any use, and in hundreds of materials. Foremost, though, in the novelty ranks are those carved of wood and later lacquered in red, black and black in some fantastic design.

Such spoons—and you'll find them in a local store—are made to match the Russian ware which has been selling at a fast pace during the last year. They are a little larger than a teaspoon, though not so large as a serving spoon. In shape they are a cross between a tablespoon and a soup spoon.

You may use them for salads, for mayonnaise and many odd dishes. They give a bright and glamorous touch to your table, and all for 10 cents.

Formula for Pep.

HOW TO FEEL like the top of the morning: out of bed and into the bath or shower. Water, lukewarm. Plenty of good, sudsing soap and lots of hard scrubbing. Now onto the bath mat, and a brisk rub down with a coarse Turkish towel. Here's the important thing—take a bit of pungent pine oil in the palm of your hand and rub this on your shoulders, up and down your arms, on your neck and chest; in fact, massage yourself all over with it. Before you finish you'll find your circulation picking up, your muscles full of snap, and your whole outlook purged of pessimism.

When you return home in the evening and you feel tired and drooping, pat pine spirits on your forehead, on the back of your neck, around the temples and on the wrist and hands. Like the caressing breeze of a pine-laden forest, it picks you up no end.

This certain pine spirit is an excellent deodorant which not only neutralizes but gives that delightful out-of-doors fragrance. It is also excellent for use after tennis, golf or riding—relieve soreness or prevent stiffness.

Novelty Ribbon Belts.

THE FASHION spotlights shine so brightly on belts this season small wonder that the stores are beginning their displays of different belt styles. Particularly interesting in this field are the ribbon belts in novelty patterns. These are about two inches wide and fasten in front with a tailored bow. They come in checks, stripes and plain colors. Price, 50 cents.

Heel Gloves That Work.

Why not protect your stockings and prevent blisters by wearing one of those comfy heel gloves? They fit right over the back of your heel and ward off that wear and tear on hose which so often comes from heavy sport shoes.

If your shoes are a little too large, you'll find a heel glove will make them fit perfectly. Its chief claim to fame comes from the fact it's the best little stocking saver anywhere. A pair of heel gloves—25 cents. They'll last forever!

Call Ruth Anne Davis, of The Washington Post, National 4200, Extension 305, for further information, or write, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope.

For Topping Desserts.

Place this inexpensive garnish in place of a whipped cream topping for desserts: Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff; add the mashed pulp of a banana, gradually, and flavor to taste with lemon juice and sugar.

Mother of Two Daughters Who Borrowed Money to Study at Business School Writes Letter of Advice and Encouragement to "Mrs. F. F. B."

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: I am writing this letter in order to encourage "Mrs. F. F. B." who wrote to your column on August 24 asking advice as to whether she should borrow money to send her 17-year-old daughter (graduate of a country high school) to business college. My advice to her is: go ahead. Borrow the necessary money, but borrow it in the daughter's name and make it the daughter's responsibility to pay it back when she gets a job.

I know whereof I am speaking. I have two daughters who graduated from a country high school at the ages of 16 and 17, respectively. Each borrowed the money to go to business school, and each took but eight or nine months stenographic training. Neither was graduated. Each held various jobs at small salaries for about a year. One is now working for the Government at a very good salary. She obtained her position through actual competitive examination and without one bit of political pull. (I also know of another business school student who has just lately done the same thing).

The other daughter holds an excellent position with a small national business office. Both are capable stenographers and office assistants. Neither one would have accomplished this without her business school training. High school education today is too smattering, with a little of this and a little of that and nothing much of anything. But the business college training is wonderful. When a student finishes a business course there, he or she is proficient in that course.

The course is soon over. A year is really short and the business training received is well worth the sacrifice involved. Speaking out of my own experience, I want to tell "Mrs. F. F. B." that if officials of the college she has in mind discover her daughter is capable and ambitious, they may allow her to pay part or all of her tuition after she gets a job. My girls did this and they have paid off the whole debt now and have an education that no one can take from them. I think "Mrs. F. F. B." should by all means talk with the dean of the school she has in mind. If she means business, he will find a way to help her.

And I think "Mrs. F. F. B." should tell her husband that the only reason he "goes along" as well as he does is because he belongs to an older generation. If he were young, with his way to make from the beginning, he would not be so fortunate! Why is it that fathers always, or nearly always, seemingly constitute a barrier in the pathway of their children's advancement, by refusing to let them do as they please?

These Blouses Will Improve Appearance of Larger Women

Pattern No. 698.

THE LARGER woman often looks her nicest, most tailored self in her suit—if her blouse is right. The surplus blouse in this pattern is right. Its jabot reverses are soft and becoming. Its sleeves are full enough to be easy to wear. The cape sleeved blouse may be of a formal fabric and worn with a long skirt to make a smart dinner costume. It may be made as a tuck-in or an overblouse.

This pattern is cut in sizes from 36 to 46, each accurate and perfectly cut. Size 40, for the surplus blouse with the three-quarter-length sleeves, requires 2½ yards of 39-inch material. The more formal blouse requires 1½ yards of 39-inch fabric.

Muriel King Deplores Tendency to Dress Alike

All clothes should be youthful looking, holds Muriel King, outstanding young American designer who is strongly against grandmotherly ever looking grandmotherish.

For Fall Styles She Prefers Beige and Black for Afternoon and Tweeds of Blue and Rust Mixture for Sports.

How can you select clothes which bring out your best points? What are the smartest fall fashions? How can you wear them to best advantage? The following article, the first in a series of ten personal interviews with famous American designers, discusses these questions.

By Frances Mangum.

IF YOU WANT to be chic, then make the most of your limitations. This is the advice of Muriel King, one of America's youngest and most successful fashion designers. Miss King, a tall, slender person with short, black, wavy hair, and dark brown eyes, has definite ideas about this business of fashions—and chic.

Tall women, she maintained, should not be afraid to look tall. They should not forever seek clothes designed to cut down their height. By stressing long limbs, or a long back, they become extremely smart, she believes.

"Lots of short people say they can never wear ruffles around their neck," she said. "They shouldn't, of course, wear ruffles as large as a tall woman does, but there's certainly no reason why mere shortness of stature should make them slaves to can't-and-can-wear-theories."

For instance, Miss King explained, she could fit one of her creations to a tall person, take the same design and fit it to a small one. By changing the proportions the style of the dress was adaptable to either type, tall or short.

"However," Miss King added, "I wouldn't do this because I only make one dress of each design. It is a shame that so many women are content to look like copies of each other. They have individuality and they should support this by individual clothes."

"A good example of this tendency to dress alike lies in the manner in which people are swayed by fashionable colors. 'I certainly am not one who holds that everybody can wear any color. I think it is a shame that so many people should try to wear shades of blue, green or red, simply because these colors are supposed to be 'chic.'"

Dark Colors Smartest.

To Miss King the smartest colors of all are the dark ones. They have a way with them, she said, and certainly are in the long run the closest allies to real smartness.

While she plans to use a variety of colors this fall, she is particularly interested in beige and black for afternoon, and soft tweeds of blue and rust mixture for sports.

To her, both color and line are expressing subjects. All summer she has been studying her sketches, which exemplify her mastery of line and silhouette and artistic appreciation of colors. From them it was plain to see that among other things Miss King is a master at glorifying simplicity.

Her sketches, she said, tell far more about her than she could. "In their own way," she said, "they answer all the questions about my work and my plans."

Miss King Generalizes.

Going through them one by one she pointed out the high points and generalized: "This evening wrap has a luxuri-

Jaw Infection Often Serious, Cutler Warns

By Dr. Irving S. Cutler.

IN 1838 William Ludwig, a physician of Stuttgart, Germany, reported in his local medical journal five cases of a peculiar type of inflammation which involved the tissues of the lower jaw beginning with the floor of the mouth. The area included the region of the salivary glands and extended well down the neck.

We now know that the disease is an infection, and in most instances the streptococcus is responsible. Sometimes the point of entrance of the infection may be traced to a molar tooth, most often the last lower molar.

Onset Is Fairly Rapid.

The condition is characterized by a fairly rapid onset with a tense, hard swelling of the tissues. The floor of the mouth is usually affected, and the tongue is often pushed upward and may protrude beyond the lips. Sometimes within a short period as 12 hours the patient's life is in real danger, as the inflammation is so rapid and so extensive that it overwhelms the defenses of the body.

The rule in most surgical conditions is that drainage should not be attempted unless a definite pus pocket can be located, but this is not applicable to Ludwig's angina. The present method of management is to open extensively into the deep spaces of the neck. Drainage tubes are then inserted and compresses soaked in a solution of hot magnesium sulphate are applied. Dakin's solution of chlorine is frequently employed.

Many of these patients come to the physician seriously ill because the symptoms are interpreted as a "sore throat" that will clear up in a few days. Because of the possible gravity of the condition, any hard and firm swelling involving the lower border of the jaw and the upper portion of the neck should receive prompt surgical attention.

Children Learn to Be Orderly By Helping to Run the Home

Their Collections of Cherished Articles Should Not Be Disturbed as Respect for Property Promotes Honesty.

The following article is the third of a series on home activities for children. These appear Tuesdays and Saturdays on the woman's page. Mrs. Bartlett, the author, is active in progressive education circles.

EVERY CHILD should have a definite share in the responsibilities of running the home. Carrying out a few simple tasks increases his security by making him realize that he is a necessary part of the family unit. It may be easier for the mother to do everything herself, but in so doing she is cheating the child out of a real privilege. Make your children responsible for their own rooms and their possessions. Do not be too willing to assist in locating misplaced articles. By searching for things which should have been put in their places, the child will soon learn that it saves time and effort in the end to be orderly.

Be careful not to throw away your child's collections of things he cherishes. To the parent they may seem utterly useless and merely cluttering up the room, but if you want your child to respect the property of others, you must give him equal respect. Respect for personal property of others is the basis of common honesty.

A mother told me the other day she had always done everything for her 10-year-old daughter, and that she didn't know how the child would ever get along at camp without her help. The mother had worn herself out assembling the child's wardrobe and whereas the child might have been of great help, she was permitted to do nothing.

How different the 10-year-old thing, boy and girl, of another friend of mine. Both these children sewed on name tapes and helped assemble their wardrobes. This entailed shopping expeditions, handling money, balancing accounts and the like.

The first child, never having been given any responsibility, had a difficult time at camp. The mere care of her possessions was almost too much for her. It took her so long to find her things and then to find a place to put them after they had been used that she missed much of the free time which might have been spent in congenial play. The twins, on the other hand, who were accustomed to taking care of themselves, took these responsibilities as a matter of course and readily adapted themselves to the new routine.

Let the children bake a cake or make cinnamon toast and cocoa for Sunday night supper. Any child, boy or girl, who can read can follow the directions in a cook book. Be sure that it is understood also that the cleaning up is as much a part of this operation as any other. If the kitchen isn't quite as tidy as you might have left it, don't underestimate the child's willingness to try. Realize that he hasn't done the job as many times as you have. Indicate that you appreciate what he has done and be constructive in your criticism. A boy of 11 in our apartment enjoys washing the family car. Each Sunday he contributes this bit to the family duties and recently has been washing the cars of two other tenants at 25 cents each. Family life entails certain responsibilities for each member of the group. The child should be given to understand that if he is to participate in the joys of the home he must also share in the work which is to be done.

Stuttering Child Usually Talkative

Handicap Has No Effect on Speech, Tests Indicate.

Children who stutter are not frightened by this handicap into silence, according to tests conducted by Dr. H. Meltzer, of the Psychological Center at St. Louis. In fact, these tests revealed that stuttering children are even more talkative than children with normal speech. Out of 50 stuttering children tested, the majority were more talkative than the same number in a comparable group of 50 children with normal speech. Each child was shown an ink blot and asked to tell what it looked like to him. One of the stutterers required 65 words to convey her impressions of the ink spot, while a little boy who did not stutter replied simply, "It looks like a cloud."

Cooking Three Meals a Day Becomes Interesting When Unusual Recipes Are Used

Cheese Is Used As Shortening In New Pastry

Pies, Tarts or Cobbler Are Delicious as Well as Simple to Make.

By Dorothea Duncan.
If you think that there is nothing new in the realm of pastry, read this and change your mind. What's more, the woman who mournfully confesses that she will never be a pie baker can succeed the very next time she tries her hand at pastry baking if she uses this modern method.

The surprise in this recipe for pastry is the use of cream cheese as a main shortening ingredient. Blackberries, cherries, peaches and blueberries all find this background of mouth-melting cheese pastry a noteworthy setting.

Has Many Uses.

Make up enough of the pastry for several desserts. Have fresh blueberry tarts for dinner, a delicious peach cobbler the next day for luncheon and perhaps a blackberry pie the same day for dinner. You will never become tired of the delicate richness of cheese pastry surrounding your favorite summer fruit.

The recipe is easy to remember and simple to follow.

Cream Cheese Pastry.

2½ packages (7½ ounces) cream cheese
¼ cup shortening
2 cups flour (measured after sifting)
½ teaspoon salt

Thoroughly mix the cream cheese and shortening. Add flour and salt to make a dough. Place in refrigerator overnight. Roll to a thin sheet and if you are making blueberry tarts as illustrated, put the pastry in circles. Make tart shells by pressing around circle only the bottom of a muffin tin. Bake in a fairly hot oven (400 F.) until delicately browned.

Use Ample Sugar.

Now cook the blueberries with plenty of sugar until they are of a richness of preserves. Permit them to cool. Fill the pastry shells to brimming with the cooked and cooled fruit. Top the tarts as illustrated with cream cheese which has been softened by the addition of a slight amount of milk or water and run through a pastry tube.

Maple Sponge, Plum Pudding Net Awards

Mrs. Randers-Pherson and Mrs. McLane Winners.

1½ cups brown sugar or maple sugar
1½ cups water
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped nuts

Maple Sponge.

Sprinkle gelatin over half cup of cold water. Put 1½ cups of brown sugar or maple sugar and one cup of water in saucepan, bring to boiling point and boil for ten minutes, stirring steadily. Pour soaked gelatin over syrup and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Beat egg yolks foamy and to cooled mixture, add this. When nearly set, add white of eggs beaten until stiff and the cup of chopped nuts. Turn into mold first rinsed with cold water and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

The raw egg yolks with the caramelized sugar give this dessert an unusual flavor.

MRS. A. P. RANDERS-PHERSON, 6819 Ridge drive, Brookmont, Washington, D. C.

Frozen Plum Pudding.

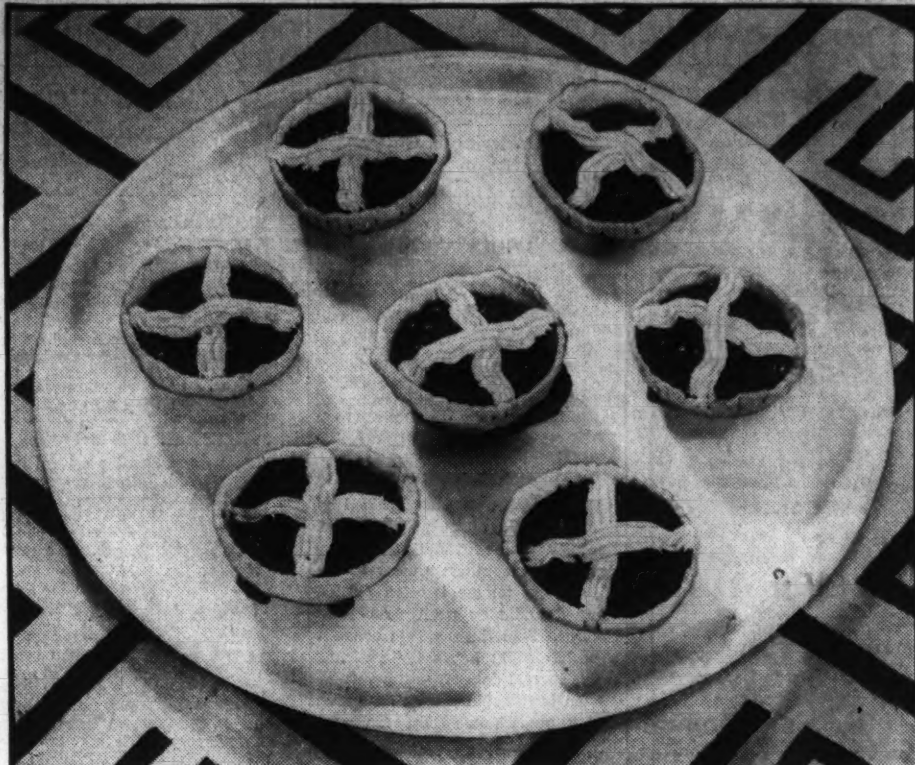

1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup sugar or honey
2 eggs, separated
¼ cup seeded raisins
¼ cup water or fruit juice
¼ cup hot water

1 cup thick cream, beaten
½ cup blanched chopped almonds
¾ pound candied fruits, chopped

Cook sugar and hot water until syrup forms a thread or 220 degrees Fahrenheit on candy thermometer. Dissolve gelatin in water or fruit juice. Beat up yolks of eggs, add syrup gradually, beat till cool, add gelatin, raisins almonds and cream. Freeze. When ready to pack, add candied fruits in alternate layers. Ripen 2 hours and serve with the following sauce: Beat up whites of eggs to a stiff froth, add one-half cup powdered sugar, one teaspoon almond extract, grated rind of one-half lemon and continue beating. Then add one cup boiling water very slowly. Chill before using.

Cheese Pastry Enhances Flavor of Fruit Tarts

Cream cheese is the main shortening in these tarts, that taste as delicious as they look. The method of making the pastry is so simple that even a novice is assured of success.

Recipes for Cold Puddings Win Week's Prizes And Now Become Eligible for Grand Awards

Only Four Weeks Remain in Which to Compete in Post Contest.

Twelve more Post readers today receive $1 each for their favorite recipe for cold puddings, suitable for summer desserts. Then only a month remains in which to try for those coveted grand prizes.

Though the weather is hot, the effort of writing out your favorite conserve recipe, the new contest topic, is well worth while. If you should be the winner of the Sunshine Mixmaster, submitting a recipe today may save endless labor for you in the future. Or the second prize, a G. E. Hotpoint coffee maker would make a pleasing addition to your household equipment. And almost any woman would appreciate the Dominion sandwich grill offered as third prize. These awards, offered by The Post and the National Electric Supply Co., will be given for the three recipes judged best of all the weekly prize winners submitted during the contest. Meanwhile, whether you are among today's prize winners or not, you will enjoy trying out the following recipes. The name of the woman who submitted each is given.

Snow Pudding.

1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
Grated rind of lemon

2 eggs

Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Dissolve in one cup boiling water, add sugar, lemon juice, and grated rind. Strain and set aside to cool. Occasionally stir the mixture, and when quite thick, beat with a wire beater until stiff enough to hold its shape. Combine this with the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs.

Pile in a glass dish, chill and serve with a soft custard made from yolks of two eggs as follows:

Mix 2 tablespoons of sugar, pinch of salt, and 2 slightly beaten yolks of eggs. Pour over the mixture 1 cup of scalded milk and cook in double boiler until mixture coats the spoon. Flavor with vanilla and chill before serving.

MRS. R. M. BRIGGS, 37 Flower ave., Takoma Park, Md.

Prune Velvet Pudding.

2 cups prunes
¼ cup granulated sugar for prunes
4 tablespoons granulated gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
2 cups milk
¼ cup granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs beaten
1½ teaspoon vanilla
½ pint whipping cream

2 dozen lady fingers (approximately)

Wash prunes, boil 45 minutes in enough water to cover, add one-fourth cup sugar for last five minutes cooking. Drain, cool and pit prunes, and cut in small pieces.

Moisten gelatin in cold water. Heat milk, sugar, and salt to boil.

Our Readers Want Your Conserve Recipes.

Cook books are funny things. They tell how to make jellies and jams, and sometimes plain conserves, but try to find a fancy conserve like the one you had at Cousin Madge's house last winter—and there is no recipe that sounds anything like it. Yet these conserves, made with fruit and varied with raisins, nuts or maraschino cherries, are delicious. Our readers would like to know more about them, and so would we!

Followers of The Post food pages are invited to submit their favorite conserve recipes for this week's recipe contest. The base may be plums, peaches, pears, grapes or other fruits. The other ingredients may be equally varied. So long as your recipe is a conserve (in other words, a fancy jam) it is eligible.

Mail the recipe to Dorothea Duncan, in care of The Post, in time to reach this office by Saturday morning at the latest.

Twelve $1 prizes will be awarded. The winning recipes will be entered for the final contest, in which the prizes are a Sunshine Mixmaster, a G. E. Hotpoint coffee-maker and a Dominion sandwich grill, offered by The Post in co-operation with the National Electric Supply Co.

ing point. Remove from fire, add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool for a few minutes and pour over well beaten eggs, stirring continuously to prevent curdling. Add vanilla and set in icebox to cool. When custard begins to set, fold in the stiffly beaten cream.

Line a large loaf cake pan bottom and sides with waxed paper, and then with halved lady fingers. Place half prunes over lady fingers, add half custard, more lady fingers, remaining prunes and remainder of custard. Lay halved lady fingers over top. Place in ice-box and let set overnight. Take out to the mold, slice, and serve. Serves 12 to 14.

MRS. JAMES A. HULFISH, 616 North Washington street, Alexandria, Va.

Frozen Apple Pudding.

2 cups unsweetened applesauce
4 tablespoons sugar
1-3 cup orange marmalade
½ cup cream, whipped
Combine applesauce, sugar, and marmalade. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze until firm (about 2 hours). Makes 1½ pints.

MISS HELEN RICHTER, 24 Rhode Island avenue northwest, Washington, D. C.

Mocha Macaroon Pudding.

1 pint milk
1 cup strong coffee
1 tablespoon minute tapioca
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon dry cocoa
6 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
5 macaroons

Scald milk and coffee in double boiler. Add minute tapioca and salt and cook for 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Mix cocoa with sugar and add. Pour small amount of mixture slowly over slightly beaten egg yolk, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler and cook until mixture begins to thicken like custard. Remove from heat, stir in butter, vanilla and crumbled macaroons. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Chill and serve in sherbet glasses, garnished with sweetened whipped cream flavored with vanilla.

MRS. JAMES WALTER, 114 East Oxford avenue, Alexandria, Va.

Poor Man's Rice Pudding.

3 level tablespoons rice
3 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 quart milk
1 lump butter to suit
Sprinkling of nutmeg or cinnamon

Wash rice, add to cold milk and other ingredients. Put in a moderate oven, turn in three times during half hour and then turn fire down as low as it will go and bake for 2½ hours longer. Your pudding will come out thick and creamy.

This really is a good recipe to have on hand when you want rice pudding and the box is almost empty.

MRS. EVA E. RICHARDSON, 4550 Connecticut avenue (Apartment 612), Washington, D. C.

Kiss Pudding.

6 tablespoons sugar
4 egg yolks, beaten
6 tablespoons cornstarch
1 quart milk, scalded
Blend the sugar and cornstarch, then dissolve with a little cold water or milk. Add the well-beaten egg yolks. Heat the milk to scalding and pour over the egg mixture, stirring constantly. Return to the stove and cook gently in a double boiler until thickened. Place in a pudding dish and cover with:

Tapioca Nut Pudding.

1-3 cup minute tapioca
½ cup sugar
½ cup finely ground nut meats
¼ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
4 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites stiffly beaten

Combine minute tapioca, sugar, salt, egg yolks and milk in top of double boiler. Stir enough to break egg yolks well.

Place over rapidly boiling water and bring to scalding point, allowing 5 to 7 minutes.

Cook 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from water, and when partly cooled fold in finely

Making Pickles For Next Winter Is Worthwhile

Chow-chows and Relishes Are Easily Made and Are Inexpensive.

The huge advances in the canning industry have made it almost impractical to can fruit and vegetables at home because commercially canned foods are perfect in quality and inexpensive to buy. Just the same, when the canning season rolls around many a woman feels the desire to put up just a few jars of her family's favorite food.

The last of the commercially canned foods to be accepted as equal to the home canned products are chow-chows, bottled tomato sauce, piccalilli, etc. Many women still take pride in preparing their own pickles and relishes.

Here are several standing favorites that you will find easy to prepare and inexpensive to make. A supply of several of these relishes will help you to add a dash of spice to your winter menus.

BOTTLED TOMATO SAUCE.

12 large tomatoes
3 bunches celery
4 green peppers
3 cups vinegar
2 onions
2 tablespoons salt
2 tablespoons sugar
Peel and chop tomatoes and onions, put in kettle and add celery (from which root and leaves have been removed) and peppers, both finely chopped and remaining ingredients. Bring to boiling point and simmer 1½ hours. Fill clean, hot bottles with mixture, cork and seal.

CHOW-CHOW.

4 quarts green tomatoes
¼ cup salt
6 small onions
1 pint cucumbers
1 green pepper
1 bunch celery
1 quart vinegar
1 cup brown or white sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground allspice
1 tablespoon ground mustard

Chop the tomatoes, add salt and mix. Let stand overnight. Next morning drain the tomatoes, and add the onions, cucumbers, pepper, and celery, chopped fine, the vinegar, sugar and spices. Put the mixture in an enamel bowl, and cook until clear. Stir well with a wooden spoon, pack in clean, hot jars and seal.

Ground spices make a dark pickle. Whole spices may be used; they should be tied in a cloth bag and removed before the pickles are sealed.

ground nut meats (peacan or English walnuts) thoroughly. Then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. When cold, put in icebox to chill. This may be served as it is or topped with whipped cream.

FLORENCE M. BACON, 430 Crittenden street northwest, Washington, D. C.

Meringue.

4 egg whites
1 teaspoon almond flavoring
1 cup sugar
½ cup coconut
(The coconut may be omitted.)

Beat egg whites until stiff. Add sugar gradually and continue heating until smooth and fluffy. Add flavoring and spread over pudding. Brown in slow oven for 15 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle with coconut. Chill and serve in sherbet glasses. This recipe serves from eight to ten. It is very satisfying.

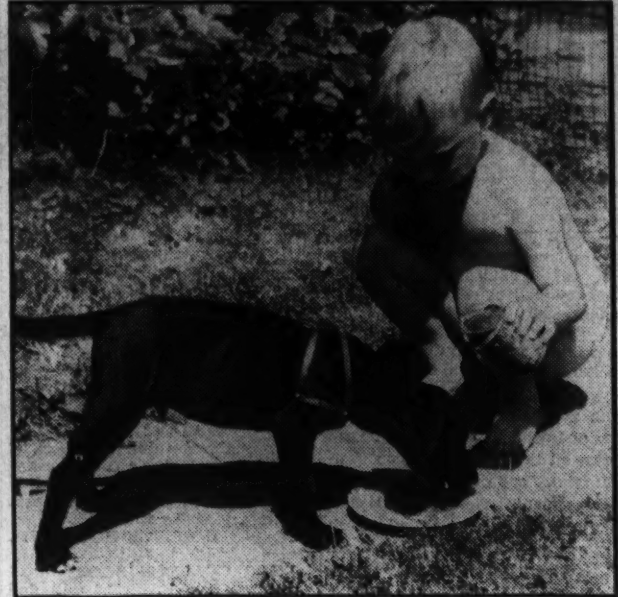

MRS. LA VERE TOLLMAN, 5117 Conduit road northwest, City.

Ambrosia Pudding.

1 pound chopped, blanched almonds
12 maraschino cherries, chopped
12 almond macaroons, broken in small pieces
12 marshmallows, cut fine
1 package lemon gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
3 tablespoons sugar

Place the almonds, cherries, macaroons and marshmallows in a mixing bowl and chill in the refrigerator. Dissolve the lemon gelatin in the boiling water and set aside to cool. When it begins to thicken whip until as thick as whipped cream. Add the chopped fruit and

Puppy Must Have His Vitamins

The dog that is properly fed on foods that are balanced to meet canine needs is a happier and healthier friend for the children in the family.

Prepared Foods Insure Health For Canine Pet

Experts Have Determined Dog Needs Carefully Balanced Diet.

When our canine friends lived in the wilds instinct told them what to eat, but when they were domesticated they were forced to feed on the leftovers from the family dinner table. They often ate mashed potatoes and gravy, yet excessive starches are hard on a dog's constitution, and sometimes they choked on a chicken bone among the leftovers.

Of recent years people are feeding their household pets more intelligently. They know that a puppy needs certain vitamins and that if it is to grow to healthy doghood it must have a balanced diet suited to its own needs. In line with this increased knowledge manufacturers have cooperated by putting on the market dog foods that insure a healthier dogdom.

Variety Available.

A dog needs protein, fat and fiber. The protein is supplied by liver, heart, pancreas or other cuts of meat, but it must be in the proper proportion to the other contents or it will not be best for the dog. That is why a prepared food, whose contents have been carefully worked out by experts, is more satisfactory than attempting to provide a balanced diet for your pet yourself. Vegetables, cod liver oil, ground bone, whole wheat, etc., all have their place in the canine diet and these, too, are contained in the proper proportion in prepared foods.

A great variety of such foods is on the market and, as in other products, there are many excellent brands. Many of them have been inspected and passed by the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, and are so marked to indicate that they contain only edible products and are prepared under sanitary conditions.

Puppies, of course, must be fed more often than the older dog which eats only once a day, but even the older dog may grow hungry between meals. To feed him a snack from the ice-box is poor policy, but there are dog biscuits and ham or soup bones that he may gnaw on in safety.

Many dog diseases are caused by wrong diet, just as it is the cause of human ills. Feeding the family properly, of course, is the first concern of the housekeeper but surely there is time to give a little thought to the diet of the family pet. He will be a healthier and happier companion as a result of it.

Hawaiian Pudding Is Prize Winner

6 slices canned pineapple
¼ lb. marshmallows
½ pt. whipping cream

Remove juice from pineapple and cut each slice into dice. Dice marshmallows and place these two ingredients in a deep dish. Pour over the mixture the cream without whipping. A whipping cream is necessary in order to give body to the pudding. Place dish in ice-box 24 hours before you wish to serve. Do not freeze. Stir occasionally during the 24-hour interval. Serves eight.

This recipe was obtained while I was residing in the Hawaiian Islands. For best results it should be followed to the letter.

John N. Willys, Auto Industry Leader, Is Dead

Ambassador to Poland in Hoover Administration Ill Since May.

By the Associated Press.
New York, Aug. 26.—John N. Willys, a leader in the automobile industry for a quarter of a century and Ambassador to Poland in the Hoover Administration, died early today at his summer home in the Bronx. He was 61 years old.

He was stricken with a heart attack in May. He partially recovered and was stricken again last week. His condition became critical Friday.

Mrs. Willys, the former Mrs. Florence E. Dolan, to whom he was married slightly more than a year ago, was in constant attendance. So was his only daughter, Mrs. Jose Delanda, the former Virginia Willys.

Started Bicycle Business.

In 1908 he took over the Overland Automobile Co., which was about to go into the hands of a receiver, and organized the Willys-Overland Co. at Indianapolis. Later he purchased the Pope-Toledo Co. at Toledo, Ohio, and moved the Willys-Overland plant there.

Served as Envoy Two Years.
He took an active part in the automobile chamber of commerce and served as chairman of the foreign trade committee.

He sold his automobile holdings to a syndicate in 1929, the deal involving several million dollars. President Hoover appointed him Ambassador to Poland in 1930 and he served until 1932.

Bradford Foreclosure Postponed for 15 Days

Bel Air, Md., Aug. 26 (AP).—W. W. Bradford, Jr., center of a year-long legal fight to retain possession of his Harford County estate, which was sold under mortgage foreclosure proceedings, today secured 15 additional days in which to file answer to eviction papers filed in Harford Circuit of Appeals here.

Judge Walter W. Preston granted the additional time, but also dismissed a complaint filed by Bradford which alleged conspiracy to deprive him of the estate. The case has been hanging fire in court for months.

Culbertson on Bridge

Dummy, the Master Hand.
Most players consider declarer holds the master hand. Such, however, is not always the case. Frequently, hands occur in which the closed hand must play a secondary role and a thorough knowledge of the underlying principle is essentially a part of the good Bridge player's education.

It is difficult enough for the average Bridge player to realize this, but when this realization is further complicated by the necessity of trumping with high honors, as it was in the hand below, it becomes doubly hard to see.

1—There was no sound reason for East's preferring to open the bidding with his four-card suit, as

South opened the King of hearts which West won with the Ace. The usual procedure for most declarers would have been to attempt to trump out the diamonds with dummy's trumps, but declarer realized that a heart continuation when he lost the lead would rob him of necessary entries to his own hand if the diamonds did not split. The cross ruff in hearts, however, was practically established and it remained only to take advantage of it. A low heart was led and trumped with the Queen of spades, a necessary unblock. East then led a low club to the King. North took the Ace and made his best return, a low spade, but the dummy won this when East played the four. A third heart lead was ruffed by declarer's King, dummy re-entered with the Queen of clubs and the fourth heart trumped with the Ace of spades. The Ace of diamonds was then cashed for the seventh trick, and the necessary three remaining tricks were won by dummy's high trumps.

Only a double dummy opening of South's singleton spade could have defeated the contract.

Mrs. Lester Barr Dies in Gloucester

Wife of Washington Realty Man Had Heart Attack.

Mrs. Lester A. Barr, socially prominent wife of the widely known Washington real estate man, died Sunday of a heart attack at her summer residence at Bass Rocks, Gloucester, Mass., after an illness of about three weeks, it was learned here yesterday.

With her at the time was her husband, who, in addition to his extensive property holdings here, is director of the American National Bank. He was expected to return to the District as soon as possible to make arrangements for the funeral.

Active in social life here, Mrs. Barr also was interested in the affairs of the Epiphany Protestant Episcopal Church for many years. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart, of Wilmington, N. C.

Mrs. Barr is survived by her husband, two sons, John L. Barr and L. Stewart Barr, now in Austria, and two daughters, Mrs. May Alexander, of Martinsburg, W. Va., and Mrs. Margaret Myers, of Princeton, N. J.

Healey Is Raised To Post of Dean At Georgetown

Appointed on 41st Birthday to Direct School of Foreign Service.

Dr. Thomas H. Healey, native of Washington and for 15 years prominently identified with the School of Foreign Service of Georgetown University, was appointed full-time dean of that school yesterday, according to an announcement by President Arthur A. O'Leary, S. J.

The announcement came on Dr. Healey's forty-first birthday. Dr. Healey, who will fill the post made vacant last June by the death of Dr. William F. Notz, has been closely associated with Georgetown since his youth. All of his higher formal education was acquired there. In 1914 he received his A.B. magna cum laude; a year later his M.A. cum laude and two years after that his LL.B. with honors.

In 1920 he did special post-graduate work and in 1922 received his doctorate in international relations. He also has studied and served as guest professor at the Academy of International Law at The Hague. He is a member of the bar of the United States Supreme Court and the District courts.

During the World War Dr. Healey served more than two years in France as a lieutenant of artillery. He resigned his commission in 1920 to take the post of secretary of the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown, which school was just being formed. Later he was made assistant dean, secretary of the executive committee, secretary of the graduate committee and professor of international law and foreign relations. He will continue in the last-mentioned post.

Dr. Healey is a member of The Washington Post Scholarship Committee in Social Science. His chief interests are international politics

Conflict Ends On Projects In Maryland

Dryden and Wolman
Join Forces and 18
Jobs Are Certified.

Plans Sent to Capital
Include 13 County Relief Programs.

By the Associated Press.
Baltimore, Aug. 26.—Arrangements for each Maryland county to share in Federal funds "in the same relative degree and in consonance with the formula defined..." in the case of Baltimore City, heads of the two Maryland work-relief administrations today dissolved the impasse which has delayed the initiation of projects in the counties. With tracks cleared for the programs, 5 Baltimore and 13 county applications were approved by Francis H. Dryden, works progress administrator, and sent to Washington. The total cost of the projects is well over half a million dollars.

Notice of the elimination of conflict and the future course of the two Federal agencies was given in a joint statement issued by Abel Wolman, State public works administrator, and Dryden.

Approved in Washington.
The joint agreement has been approved in Washington. It was at the request of National authorities that the two Marylanders undertook to arrange for co-operation.

Sponsors of projects were asked to continue to file their applications for funds. By revision and rearrangement of such projects, in consultation with appropriate local officials, men will be put to work under joint review by the State heads of the WPA and PWA.

County projects approved and forwarded to Washington today by the WPA are:

Allegany County, outfall sewer, Lindenville to the Potomac River, $67,614; work for 1,408 men for a month.
Cumberland, extension of sanitary sewers on Bedford street, $36,114; 1,008 man-months of work.
Hagerstown, pipe around the reservoir, $2,400; 48 man-months; relocation of storm drains near Dewey avenue, $5,076; 81.6 man-months; water mains on Ayon road, $1,624; 27.8 man-months; paving five streets, $11,777; 422.4 man-months.
Emmitsburg, sanitary sewers, $15,633; 448.8 man-months.

Montgomery, creek drain in Silgo and Rock Creek Parks, $13,723; 380.4 man-months.

Brentwood Job Listed.

Prince Georges County, Colmar Manor, curbs, gutters and sidewalks, $15,000; 357.8 man-months; Brentwood, $14,900; 193.3 man-months. Snow Hill, street repairs, $7,388; 135.6 man-months.

Pocomoke City, rebuilding school, $17,200; 322.8 man-months.
The county projects approved today would provide work for 4,052 men for one month. A number of other county applications have already cleared through the Baltimore office.

The Baltimore projects approved today would include road work in the park system, and building athletic facilities in and improving a number of parks. Their total cost is nearly $400,000.

New Dormitories Ready
At W. Va. U. Campus

Special Dispatch to The Post.
Morgantown, W. Va., Aug. 26.—Two new dormitories will open at the State university when that institution reopens in September.

One of these will house 373 young men, while the other, equally large, is for young women. Exclusive of furnishings, the two new buildings cost $625,000 and were largely financed with Federal funds.

Youth Swims 20 Yards And Saves Sinking Boy

Baltimore, Aug. 26 (P).—John Dillinger, Jr., 19-year-old son of a Baltimore barber, was recorded today as the hero of a life-saving episode.

Dillinger swam 20 yards fully clothed in Rock Creek, near here, yesterday to rescue 12-year-old Buddy Tracy. The boy sank twice before Dillinger reached him.

Man Attacked by Bees Is Found Dead in Bed

Special Dispatch to The Post.

West Union, W. Va., Aug. 26.—Bee stings are believed to have caused the death of Oliver R. Windon, 56, Blandville farmer, whose body was found in bed by his wife.

While at work in a harvest field, he was stung 20 times Thursday by bees and retired feeling ill, but no alarm was felt. It is believed that shock from the stings aggravated a weakened heart. Besides the widow, Mrs. Rose Husk Windon, he is survived by two brothers, John and Stoney Windon, both of Blandville.

Practice Cruise Is Completed By 735 Middies

By a Staff Correspondent.

Two Warships Anchor in Annapolis Roads After 12,000-Mile Trip.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 26.—Two great dreadnaughts, the battleships Wyoming and Arkansas, teamed with 735 midshipmen, crept up Chesapeake Bay early today amid a roar of naval salutes, and dropped anchor in Annapolis Roads, ending a 12,000-mile European summer practice cruise.

As the vessels appeared on the horizon, the Naval Academy battery fired a 13-gun salute for the flag of Rear Admiral Hayne Ellis, commander of the practice squadron on the flagship Arkansas.

Instantly, guns of the incoming battleships reverberated with seven chattering salutes for Capt. H. Kent Hewitt, acting superintendent of the Academy in the absence of Rear Admiral David Foote Sellers, superintendent, who is in Europe.

Middies Disembark Today.
At dawn tomorrow, members of this cruise will disembark and, with the second classmen who finished summer pursuits in Annapolis, will go on a month's leave, culminating September 27 when the academic year begins.

The cruise originally took 789 first and third class middies to Scotland, Norway, Denmark, Gibraltar, Madeira and back to the United States. Sixty-three members of the varsity football squad, on the Wyoming, boarded the destroyer Fairfax August 15 bound for shore leave until September 5, when gridiron sessions start.

Two Kings Visit Ships.
For a week the warships have churned their way up the Chesapeake with a brief interlude off Pine Point, near Chesapeake Beach. Meanwhile, members of the second class were completing summer aviation and engineering studies at the Academy.

Admiral Ellis said, "We had a most successful cruise. We had a fog or low visibility for 2,000 miles over Europe which believed to be a record. However, the weather was good coming back."

"Two kings visited the ships, the King of Norway came aboard at Oslo and the King of Denmark at Copenhagen."

For Forest Authorized

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Elkins, W. Va., Aug. 26.—The Monongahela National Forest has been brought nearer the million-acre mark by authorization of the national forest reservation commission for the purchase of 75,217 acres of timber lands in Randolph, Pendleton, Tucker and Webster Counties.

The largest tract is that of the West Virginia Fuel & Paper Co. in Randolph and Webster Counties, comprising 60,505 acres. The purchase of 5,000 acres in Randolph County, 2,000 in Pendleton County, 1,000 in Pocahontas County and 500 in Tucker, also was authorized.

Election to Be Postponed.
Salisbury, Md., Aug. 26 (P).—Leaders of both political parties here do not feel that a special election should be held to name a successor to the late Clarence W. Wheaton as a Wisconsin County member of the State House of Delegates. Such an election would cost at least $500. It has been pointed out that the post can be filled without added expense during the 1936 presidential election.

Pilot Hurt in Crash.
Richmond, Va., Aug. 26 (P).—E. O. Sutton, pilot at the Richmond Airport and formerly of Greensboro, N. C., was injured in the crash of a plane he was piloting here yesterday. He suffered a broken leg and was cut and bruised. He was bringing the plane down into the field when it crashed and overturned.

C. E. Societies to Meet.
Frostburg, Md., Aug. 26 (P).—Members of Christian Endeavor societies of Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties will attend the annual convention to be held here Friday, Saturday and Sunday. State officers of the Christian Endeavor movement will speak and there will be special music.

Driver Exonerated.
Frederick, Md., Aug. 26 (P).—Magistrate William H. Campbell today exonerated Clayton O. Smith, New Market, of blame in the accident in which Charles L. Crowell was killed. Crowell was struck Saturday night while walking near Brunswick. Smith said lights of another automobile blinded him and that he did not see Crowell.

29th to Join Third Corps In Mock War

Skeleton Army Division to Oppose Guardsmen in Night Advance.

Officers Prepare First
Large Scale Tactics
Since 1918.

By Phil Austensen.

Camp Reckord, Mount Gretna, Pa., Aug. 26.—Ceasing to operate as a separate division camp, the Twenty-ninth Division will move to Belle Grove tomorrow to take part in the Third Corps maneuvers at Indiantown Gap. The maneuvers will begin shortly after midnight.

Included in the Third Corps are the Twenty-eighth Pennsylvania National Guard Division, the Twenty-ninth Division, composed of Maryland, Virginia, District of Columbia, and Pennsylvania units, and several regular Army units.

The entire corps will take part in a battle against an enemy, outlined by a skeletonized Eighth Regular Army division. Enough Army men will be posted to present a representation of the division against which the corps is to launch its attack.

A nest of machine guns will be represented by white flags and a lone gun crew and an entire battalion of artillery by one battery. The enemy will be designated as the Red Army and the attackers as the Blue.

The Twenty-ninth Division will move from Camp Reckord for its bivouac at Belle Grove, 20 miles away, beginning at 7 a. m. tomorrow. Foot troops will be moved by truck and artillery and other mechanical units will move under their own power.

Battle Starts at 7 P. M.
The corps must be established in bivouac readiness for the beginning of the "battle" at 7 p. m. tomorrow.

The maneuver is the first opportunity since the World War for a corps problem with actual troops to perform the duties. It is expected to be of immense value in training the officers and men to cooperate as a unit.

The corps will be under command of Maj. Gen. Robert E. Callan, commanding the Third Corps of the First Field Army.

Most of today was spent in preparation for the movement to the division and of the corps today as plans and necessary maps and orders were formulated and delivered. Maj. Sidney Morgan, of Washington, is G-2 for the Twentieth Division and Col. John C. Pegram is G-2 for the corps.

Plane Flare Starts Fire.
Fire, believed to have been started by a flare from a stunt airplane, last night burned a quadrant of the headquarters company of the first Infantry, Maryland National Guard, of Frederick. Private Jefferson Brandenburg, of Frederick, who was asleep in the tent was pulled to safety by Sgt. Harry Bartgis, Corp. John Miller and Stokes Engle and Privates Robert Schell and Chester Reighner, who also saved some of the property in the tent.

Other occupants of the tent whose property was destroyed were Corp. John Miller and Privates Robert Schell, Charles Schammel, Meredith McBride and John Eader.

No further developments in the efforts of Communist literature distributors who have made several attempts to place literature of a subversive nature into the camps were reported yesterday. Camp intelligence officers are maintaining special vigilance in an effort to capture the persons responsible.

Rosa Cummings Bride
Of Richard H. Beville

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Staunton, Va., Aug. 26.—Miss Rosa Cummings, daughter of Mrs. Sallie Carter Cummings, of Lexington, and Richard Henry Beville, son of Mrs. Kate Patrick Beville and the late Dr. R. P. Beville, of Blacksburg, were married Saturday morning in the Mount Spring Methodist Church by the Rev. Harry W. Craver.

Mrs. Beville is a graduate of Blacksburg College and has been a member of the college's administrative staff for several years. Mr. Beville is with the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, in Blacksburg, where the couple will live after September 1.

Police Hunt Vandals Of Tecumseh Statue

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Weston, W. Va., Aug. 26.—State police are investigating an act of vandalism by which an Indian statue overlooking the camp grounds at Jackson's Mill was snarled recently.

The statue, located on Indian knoll, was erected to the memory of Tecumseh, Indian chief, who was born in the Hacker's creek valley near the site of the statue. Vandals broke off an arm, disfigured the features and then smeared the memorial with red paint. A rope to scale the monument was found nearby.

Hotel Rights For Liquor Stake in Quiz

Virginia Board Holds
Hearings to Decide License Course.

Tangle Keeps Monroe
Bar Open; Raids, Fines Continue.

By the Associated Press.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 26.—Pushing their drive against the sale of hard liquors by the drink in hotels and clubs of Norfolk, Portsmouth, Virginia Beach and immediate territory, Virginia Alcohol Beverage Control Board inspectors today conducted hearings to determine whether the licenses of the hotels should be revoked.

Meanwhile, across Hampton Roads at Old Point Comfort, the New Chamberlin Hotel continued operation of its bar. Enforcement of State laws on the Fort Monroe reservation, in which the hotel is located, has been placed upon the commandant but thus far legal technicalities have interfered.

Testimony Given.
Testimony in the license hearing today was given by representatives of the Monticello Hotel of Norfolk; the Cavalier Hotel of Virginia Beach, and Frank's Tavern, of Portsmouth, before Wade H. Miles, head of the inspection and license division of the board.

The American Legion Club of Virginia Beach, which also had been demanded to show cause why its license to dispense wine and beer should not be revoked, obtained a continuance.

It recently was learned that a committee of Virginia hotel men organized to propose to the next General Assembly changes in the ABC act allowing hotels to dispense whiskey by the drink, as well as wines.

Holds Law Adequate.
This movement brought from Gov. Peery the statement that he saw no need for a change in the law and a warning of opposition from anti-saloon organizations.

Undisturbed, ABC inspectors last week arrested employees of the Monticello Hotel, the Cavalier Hotel, and the American Legion Club. Fines totaling $800 were imposed upon the Monticello and four workers at a police court hearing Friday.

The case of the Cavalier and American Legion Club is to be heard Tuesday night, September 3, at Virginia Beach.

Surviving him, beside the widow, are five children, Mrs. E. W. Stoll, Brooklyn Park; Samuel E. Coe, Brookline, Mass.; the Rev. Robert W. Coe, Brookline, Mass.; the Rev. Albert B. Coe, Oak Park, Ill.; the Rev. M. Walker Coe, North Carver, Mass.; and 11 grandchildren.

Tablet Is Unveiled To Mark Old Fort

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Hancock, Md., Aug. 26.—Three counties, Washington, in Maryland, and Franklin and Fulton in Pennsylvania, joined in ceremonies in connection with the unveiling this afternoon of a tablet marking the spot where Fort Combe, a blockhouse used by settlers in the Hancock area during attacks by Indians early in the eighteenth century, once stood.

Among others taking part in the ceremony were Ward Mann, one of Hancock's oldest residents who as a boy played in the blockhouse on the Wardford road 2 miles from here, unveiled the tablet attached to a boulder of native stone.

The ceremonies were in charge of Franklin County Chapter, D. A. R., and its president, Mrs. Percy D. Hoover, Waynesboro, Pa., presided. An address was delivered by Frank P. Plessinger, Amaranth, Pa. The Fulton County Historical Society also sponsored the unveiling.

Among others taking part in the program were Mrs. Merrill W. Nace, McConnellsburg, a; Miss Sarah McCandlish and her father, R. J. McCandlish, Jr., Hancock, and the Reverends William Lowe, McConnellsburg, and Francis M. Cooper, Hancock.

Three Are Arraigned In Slot Machine Raids

By a Staff Correspondent.

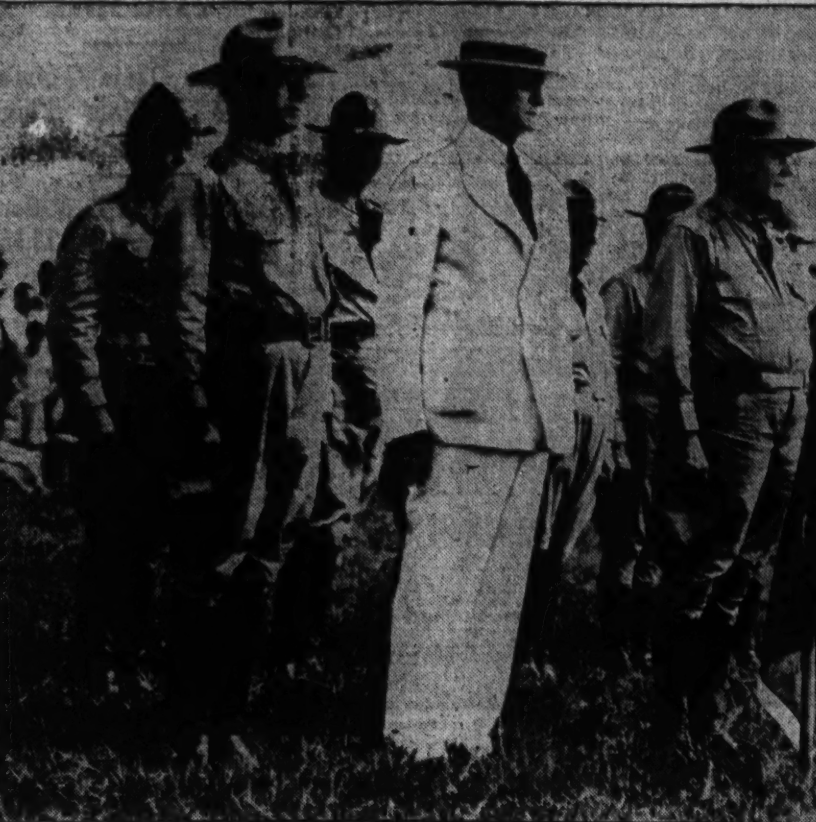

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 26.—Two men and a woman, apprehended with three others in slot machine raids in the Third District of Anne Arundel County yesterday, appeared before Police Magistrate Louis Strauss here today and filed a $200 bond for appearance at a hearing tomorrow at Round Bay.

Charles Levitt and William Haslop, of Jacobsville, and Mrs. Alice Drummond, of Mountain Road, were released on their own recognition. The identities of the other three were not disclosed and they have not filed bond.

Deputy Sheriff John E. Parks conducted the raid, in which six slot machines were seized. Last week Sheriff Joseph Walton ordered a "clean up" of the territory.

Rev. S. W. Coe, Retired, Dead In Maryland

Was 80 Years Old and Had Been a Minister for Over 50 Years.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 26.—The Rev. Samuel W. Coe, retired minister of the Maryland Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, died yesterday at his home, Brooklyn Park.

Mr. Coe, who celebrated his eightieth birthday in February, was born in Greensboro, N. C. He represented a fourth generation of his family to serve in the ministry, and had three sons also ministers. He was graduated from Guilford College in Greensboro, and after studying under ministers in North Carolina, was ordained.

His ministry of more than 50 years was spent, in large part, in Maryland, his first charge being at Ruthsburg, in Queen Anne's County. He retired after serving at Webster, in Harford County, ten years ago. Since then he has acted as supply pastor.

Surviving him, beside the widow, are five children, Mrs. E. W. Stoll, Brooklyn Park; Samuel E. Coe, Brookline, Mass.; the Rev. Robert W. Coe, Brookline, Mass.; the Rev. Albert B. Coe, Oak Park, Ill.; the Rev. M. Walker Coe, North Carver, Mass.; and 11 grandchildren.

Surviving are two sons, William W., business manager, and George Powell, cashier, Clarksburg Publishing Co., and three daughters, Mrs. Robert Stafford, Elkins, W. Va., and Mrs. Joseph Dickey and Miss Charlotte Powell, Clarksburg. She also leaves a brother, George Whitford.

Teachers in Session.
Special Dispatch to The Post.

Weston, W. Va., Aug. 26.—John M. Lowe, of Charleston, State director of vocational agriculture, is in charge of a three-day session of West Virginia High School vocational agriculture teachers being held in the State Park at Jackson's Mill. Consideration of methods of enlarging the field of vocational training is among the problems of the session.

Dog That Paid Calls In Veterinarian Killed

Frederick, Md., Aug. 26 (P).—Bingo, the 6-year-old bulldog that made its own trips to a veterinarian, is dead. The dog, owned by Dr. and Mrs. Edward P. Thomas, was struck by an automobile last week and was destroyed to end its suffering.

Bingo gained wide publicity several years ago when his mistress took him to Dr. R. V. Smith, a veterinarian, one day for treatment of an infected ear.

For the next two weeks, Bingo made daily unaccompanied trips to Dr. Smith for treatment. When the infection healed, Bingo quit his visits.

Defense Drive Widening Plea Gains Support

Auto Club Head Says Move
Is Necessary to Prevent Further Accidents.

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, Aug. 26.—Charles M. Falconer, president of the Automobile Club of Maryland, today joined the ranks of persons advocating the widening of the Defense highway from Washington to the Crane highway.

Five persons lost their lives last Tuesday in an automobile-bus crash on the highway near Bowie.

Falconer said he felt the "people of the State should be willing to forego other improvements elsewhere and make this one for the saving of life in the future."

"I agree entirely with the statement made by Congressman Stephen W. Gammill last week to the effect that the 15-foot width of hard road with two and one-half foot dirt shoulders on either side is entirely inadequate for the traffic of the road."

"It does seem to me that the improvement of this road should be high on the list of the road improvements contemplated by the State Roads Commission in the near future and that we should not be content with the feeling that it is adequate as it stands."

Court Salaries Raised In Augusta County

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Staunton, Va., Aug. 26.—Augusta County supervisors are so well pleased with the first year of operation of the trial justice court that they have voted a $600 increase in the salary of the judge, W. Terrell Sheehan. His salary will be $3,600.

The board also raised the salary of Miss Elizabeth McNamara, the court clerk in Staunton, from $50 to $75 a month, and that of A. R. Main, in Waynesboro, from $25 to $35 a month.

Maryland Asks Million Relief For September

Greenstein Sends Budget, Warning Against Any Reductions.

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, Aug. 26.—Asking $1,053,590 of Federal funds for Maryland relief next month, Harry Greenstein, State relief administrator, said today that if the whole sum is not appropriated, the State's unemployed face "suffering and distress."

"If we do not receive the full amount requested," Greenstein said, "we will face a very serious situation in September. The only reason why we got through August without difficulty in face of a cut in the appropriations was because we had a substantial reserve. This, however, has been practically exhausted and we will therefore need the full amount requested if we are to avoid suffering and distress."

In his letter to Aubrey Williams, assistant Federal relief administrator, Greenstein said:

"I can not urge too strongly the necessity of our receiving the appropriation we are requesting. Up to the present time there has hardly been any transfer of our relief clients to the works program, and I understand that it will be at least October before the program gets underway in any great degree. This means, of course, that we will not be able to count upon any sizable reduction of our relief rolls by virtue of the operation of the works program during the month of September."

"I feel it is also important that you take into consideration that our relief load is down to rock bottom. With the passing of seasonable employment in the counties, and the impossibility of expediting any great industrial pickup in Baltimore City during the next 30 days, our intake is bound to increase. In addition, budgets for our clients must be increased in order to provide school needs for children, and more adequate clothing allowances."

Pickets Use Rowboats At Baltimore Plant

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, Aug. 26 (P).—A quarter of a mile long picket line was established today by striking workers of the Davison Chemical Co. here. The line included pickets in two rowboats to watch the water front. Twenty policemen were on duty, but there was no violence.

Officials of the Chemical Workers Union, No. 20066, said the group represented all except 30 workers at the plant. They said the strike was for reinstatement of 21 employees dropped by the company August 12.

Melon Crop Up

By the Associated Press.

College Park, Aug. 26 (P).—The 1935 Maryland cantaloupe crop is estimated at 1,062,000 crates as compared with the 1934 crop of 962,000 crates, according to the Maryland crop reporting service. The five-year average is 685,000 crates.

Cards, Beaten by Phils, 4-3, Keep Lead as Giants Also Bow

Bill Walker Is Pounded Off Slab

Jorgens Holds Champs to 9 Hits; Receives Fine Support.

Two-Run Rally in 6th Clinches Contest for Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—The mad rush of the St. Louis Cardinals toward the National League pennant hit a snag today when the Phillies won the first tilt of a three-game series, 4 to 3. The world champions retained their home game advantage, however, as the Giants also lost.

Orville Jorgens, knocked out of the box by the lowly Reds yesterday, came back to hold the Cards to nine scattered hits. He received support, however, that at times verged on the spectacular as Frankie Frisch's men fought desperately in the late innings.

The Phillies, on the other hand, did not spare Bill Walker. They knicked the St. Louis southpaw for nine hits in six innings. He was relieved at the start of the seventh by Jesse Haines, and the Cards could do nothing about overcoming the Phillies' advantage.

Cards Tie Score.

The Phillies scored first in the second inning, but the Cards came right back in the third to tie the score. The Phils counted again in the fourth, however, and then put over what proved to be the deciding tally in the sixth after the world champions had scored twice in their half of the frame. Jimmy Wilson's double and Gomez's single provided the first of Philadelphia's last two tallies, and then Jorgens walked and Chiozza crashed with a two-bagger to push Gomez across the plate.

Macks, Tigers Yanks, Chisox Split in Two Contests

A's Bow, 13-7, Then Hum Leaders, 3-2; Foxx Hits Two Homers.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—The Philadelphia Athletics and the Detroit Tigers broke even in a twin bill here today, the American League champions taking the first game, 13 to 7, and Philadelphia winning the second, 3 to 2.

Tommy Bridges, leading Detroit pitcher, hurled four-hit ball in the second game, but errors by Owen and Rogell in the ninth left two Philadelphia runs after Jimmy Foxx had hit his twenty-eighth home run of the season in the seventh inning. Foxx got his twenty-seventh in the first inning of the early game.

The Tigers scored twice in the last of the ninth, but their chance to tie the score went glimmering when Goslin hit into a double play.

Van Ryn Wins Title With Allison

Veteran Davis Cupmen Take Brilliant Final From Budge, Mako.

Annex First Two Sets, Lose Advantage, Then Score in 5th, 6-1.

By the United Press.

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass., Aug. 26.—Fighting off the challenge of youth, Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, greatest "money" team of the last decade, today defeated their Davis Cup teammates, Don Budge and Gene Mako, of California, to win the National Men's Doubles Tennis championship for the second time in five years.

Calling on the wealth of experience gained through years of campaigning at home and abroad, the veterans stroked out a stirring 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 2-6, 6-1 victory before a roaring gallery of 3,000 at Longwood Cricket Club, to clinch the title which George Lott and Lester Stoeftin vacated when they entered the professional ranks.

Win Mixed Doubles.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, of Boston, and Enrique G. Maier, of Spain, took minor honors on the final day of the week-long American doubles tourney as they defeated Kay Stammers, English beauty, and towering Roderick Menzel, of Czechoslovakia, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, to win the National Mixed Doubles crown. They succeeded the 1934 champions, Helen Jacobs and George Lott.

Tennis pals and partners since 1927 when Allison won the intercollegiate singles championship for Texas University and Van Ryn paired with Kenneth Appel to win the college doubles crown for Princeton. Van Ryn and Allison rapped out an emphatic protest to their critics who claim that they have outlived their Davis Cup usefulness and should give way to youth next year.

Defeated Hopelists.

Not only did they outfight the lanky, red-thatched Budge and the stocky, blonde Mako in a five-set battle today, but in reaching the finals they won another full-length battle from Henry Cullie, of California, and Wilmer Hines, of Carolina, rangy stylists who, with Budge and Mako, are rated the most promising young team in the country.

Mako played rather jittery tennis for the first two sets and Allison and Van Ryn seemed their way to a straight-set victory as they ran off the first two chapters at 6-4, 6-2. But Mako found himself in the third set and in the sixth game he and Budge slammed home placebos to win against Allison's service for a 4-2 lead which they never relinquished.

William Weber Keeps Harrison Tennis Title

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 26.—William Weber, for the third consecutive year, is Harrison County's tennis champion. He retained his title by defeating Raymond Rapp in a grueling four-set match, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, on the Clarksburg Country Club's courts.

By virtue of his victory, Weber took permanent possession of the Richard Marks challenge trophy.

Pirates Keep Giants From First Place

Pie Traynor Leads Attack as New York Bows, 10-2, to Hit Barrage.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—With Manager Pie Traynor on a hitting rampage, the Pittsburgh Pirates prevented the New York Giants from slipping back into first place today as they walloped the erstwhile leaders, 10 to 2, while the place-setting Cardinals were dropping a decision at Philadelphia.

Traynor, leading a 15-hit attack on four pitchers, collected a home run with the bases loaded to send the Bucs away flying in the third inning and then added four singles.

He drove in six runs while Tom Padden and Forest Jensen accounted for one each with circuit drives. Al Smith started on the mound for the Giants, and although hit hard, stayed there until the third, when Euel Moore was called in from the bullpen. The Indian hurler made it 10 to 0 in the fourth, Freddy Fitzsimmons, making his first appearance on the mound since July 5, held the Pirates to one run and six hits during the remaining five innings.

Traynor's fifth hit scored Paul Waner with the only run made off Fitz after two were out in the ninth.

The Giants made 11 hits off Ralph Birkette, but the Pittsburgh southpaw kept them away from the plate after the second inning, leaving ten stranded on the bases.

Cotton Awaits Loan Policies

New York, Aug. 26.—Renewed uncertainty as to cotton loan policies caused nervousness and irregularity at the futures market today.
Early advances of 15 to 18 points were followed by partial retractions under realizing or scattered selling and after selling off from 10.49 to 10.34, December closed at 10.37. The general market was steady at net advances of 3 to 10 points.
Early demand prompted by relatively steady Liverpool cables and revived talk of a 12-cent crop loan was combined with Southern selling, supplemented by scattered realizing, with attention centered on the loan situation traders paid little attention to the news.
Exports today, 10,399, making 164,437 so far this season. Port receipts 28,302. U. S. port stocks 1,147,841.

Sears Plans to Sell Ready Made Homes

Special Dispatch to The Post.
Chicago, Aug. 26.—Sears-Roebuck plans to enter the prefabricated house field and when arrangements are completed will offer for sale all materials except ingredients for the foundation.
Cost of the houses erected and ready to move into will range from $2,900 to $4,200. These totals, of course, do not include the prices of lots.
The first of the new houses, designed by General Homes Inc., will be completed for public inspection by the latter part of October on a site in the Chicago suburban area. By that time Sears will have available specifications and prices on 30 different four to six room plans which will make up the initial line.
Sears' modern homes department, now discontinued, sold more than 100,000 houses in the past 29 years.

N. Y. Bank Deposits Climb to New High

Special Dispatch to The Post.
New York, Aug. 26.—Net demand and time deposits of the 19 member banks in the New York Clearing House Association soared to a new pinnacle in the week ended August 24, when they totaled $8,907,043,000, just $92,000 short of the $9,000,000 mark. In the week the gain amounted to $56,132,000, while compared with a year ago it totaled $1,570,157,000. This year these institutions have augmented their deposit totals by $1,340,545,000. The deposits of these institutions, in 1929, before the expression, were at a high of $7,856,032,000, when there were 24 banks and trust companies in the association.

Chain Profits Run Ahead of Sales Gain

With Exception of Grocery Group, 1934 Income Beat Gross Sales.

Chain stores, with the exception of the grocery group, reported larger increases in net profits than in gross sales in 1934, according to an analysis of the returns of companies aggregating sales in excess of $4,000,000 last year.
Eighty-eight selected companies reported sales of $4,081,372,000, an increase of 10.6 per cent over 1933. The grocery chains, however, showed a gain of 17.2 per cent. Gross was still 12.9 per cent under the 1929 figure, and net profits were 31.5 per cent under 1929. More recent returns have furnished the basis for a buying movement in retail store shares and bonds for ten groups of store chains, as compiled by Childs, Jeffries & Thordike, Inc., are as follows:

Stocks Recover With Strength in Steels, Mines, Trucks, Airplanes and Chemicals—Government Bonds Soften—Russian Money Falls.

New York, Aug. 26.—With a turnover of somewhat less than a million and a half shares, the smallest in two weeks, the share market recovered from its week-end sinking spell, led by a few buoyant groups. Bonds were held down by another weak day for Treasury issues. Farm commodities climbed on the battle in Congress to vote more doles and price supports for cotton and grains, but wheat sold off before the close. September futures ended 1/2 cent lower at 88 1/2 cents a bushel.
Postponement of adjournment by Congress, because of the snarl over the cotton bonus, was a bear point in the security markets. Markets always are nervous so long as Congress sits, seeing in the sessions an opportunity even up to the last minute to spend more money or to do something more likely than not to be harmful to business.
Recovery has gone a good distance since this Congress met, but in Wall Street, at least, the advance is regarded as having come in spite of and not because of new legislation or administration of older New Deal laws. The legislative threat has not been general enough to hold back business recovery completely; it merely has retarded it and definitely hurt some industries. It has kept the door closed on new capital, but the positive effects of that will be more keenly felt after recovery has gone far enough to exhaust the supply of corporation cash now available, and after (if the time comes) confidence is sufficiently restored to induce stock market recovery.
Further statistical evidence was supplied by the Federal Reserve Board for the case that this summer has brought much less than the seasonal slack in trade. With the spring gains running through the summer, the climb this autumn, which strong securities markets are predicting, ought to reach the best levels since the depression became serious. Factory employment and output last month, the board reports, were about on the June level. Steel trade reviews mention price hardening here and there. While commodity prices in general have changed little this summer, some advance may be anticipated for the autumn.
Communism.
Although the news on war preparations abroad was interesting and even exciting, the foreign exchange market was dull. The relation of the dollar to sterling, francs and lire changed little, largely because of control operations. An exception to the general readiness was the Soviet market. Rubles were put down about 14 1/2 points on the squabble that has arisen between Washington and Moscow, oddly enough, over a question of communistic ideas. Money was dull and unchanged. Stocks again were the strongest in the steel section. Public utility issues, for all the menace of the holding company act, were inclined to steadyness. Railroad stocks took little interest in the proceedings. The earnings of railroads for July were unsatisfactory. With about as much gross revenue as was reported last year, the net railway operating income fell about 30 per cent. New York City was the only rail to attract much attention. It moved up a fraction.
United States Steel recovered to within an eighth of its best price of the year. Oxi Steel was run up in the morning deals to a new high but seemed to run into an obstacle around price of 17, and it was not especially active in the afternoon. Whether an investigation into the market was being made could not be learned.
As good a market as anywhere was to be found in the mining stocks. Silver, copper and lead issues moved strongly ahead. American Smelting made a new high for the year. De Beers, a Pasco and United States Smelting were buoyant. The silver market bloc never-theless said the market would have to await the next session of Congress to get anything further done for it.
Brisk buying in the airplane stocks took place from time to time and a number of issues rose 1 to 2 points. Motors were quiet until the close, when Chrysler was given a run, lifting the price 2 points or so. Truck company stocks lumbered to the fore. Chemical stocks found good demand. Du Pont rose 4 points to a new high price. Allied added 2 points. Phillips Petroleum was followed by the Standard Brands dropped a little of the dividend cut. Gillette common advanced a point, but the preferred broke 4 points on a few sales. Farm implements kept to the upper road.
All Work, No Play.
Governors of the Stock Exchange have been so deaf to petitions of holiday-seeking members that no attempt is being made to obtain an adjournment of the Saturday session of the exchange. The Saturday session of the exchange was closed on Labor Day, in the 20 years from 1910 to 1919 the exchange was closed on 14 Saturdays before Labor Day, as well as 1914, when the market was closed by the war. In the 15 years from 1920 to 1934 there were seven holidays on this occasion. Since the NRA demonstration on September 13, 1933, when the exchange closed at noon, members have stuck to their posts except on legal holidays, Good Fridays and one hour of a Long Island blizzard.

All Work, No Play.
Governors of the Stock Exchange have been so deaf to petitions of holiday-seeking members that no attempt is being made to obtain an adjournment of the Saturday session of the exchange. The Saturday session of the exchange was closed on Labor Day, in the 20 years from 1910 to 1919 the exchange was closed on 14 Saturdays before Labor Day, as well as 1914, when the market was closed by the war. In the 15 years from 1920 to 1934 there were seven holidays on this occasion. Since the NRA demonstration on September 13, 1933, when the exchange closed at noon, members have stuck to their posts except on legal holidays, Good Fridays and one hour of a Long Island blizzard.

July Business Fails to Show Seasonal Drop

Factory Employment, Output Maintained at the Same Level.

By R. Karl von Lewinski.
Contrary to the seasonal trend, factory employment and output during July was maintained at the June level, the Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday.
For the first seven months of the year industrial output was 6 per cent larger than a year ago. Activity at steel mills, which had declined during June, advanced considerably during July and the first three weeks of August and there was also a substantial increase in the output of lumber.
Automobile production showed a decrease from the high level prevailing earlier in the year, reflecting in part seasonal developments. Output of textiles increased somewhat in July, owing chiefly to increased activity at silk mills. In the wool industry the recent high rate of activity continued, while at cotton mills daily average output declined by about the usual seasonal amount.
Factory employment, which usually declines at this season, showed little change from the middle of June to the middle of July. Employment increased somewhat in the machinery, lumber, furniture, and silk industries and there was a large seasonal increase in the canning industry. Decreases of a seasonal character were reported for establishments producing cotton goods and women's clothing, while in the automobile industry employment declined by more than the usual seasonal amount. At coal mines employment showed a marked decrease in July.
The total value of construction contracts awarded, as reported by the F. W. Dodge Corporation, increased during July and the first half of August, reflecting an increase in non-residential projects. Residential building continued in considerably larger volume than a year ago, with increases from last year reported for most sections of the country.
Excess reserves of member banks increased by $340,000,000 in the five-week period ended August 21, as a consequence principally of a reduction in the balances held by the Treasury with Federal Reserve banks. There were also moderate reports of gold from abroad.
Federal loan and investment reports of reporting member banks in leading cities showed a net decline of $200,000,000 during the four weeks ended August 14. Holdings of direct obligations of the United States Government decreased by $200,000,000 following a substantial increase in the middle of July. Loans declined by $180,000,000 in the latter part of July but subsequently advanced by $40,000,000, while holdings of Government guaranteed and other securities increased by $70,000,000 in the four-week period.
Yields on Government securities rose slightly during this period, while short-term open-market money rates remained at low levels.

Side Lines Benefit From Building Boom

Residential Contracts in July 140% Over Preceding Year.

By The Associated Press.
New York, Aug. 26.—Trailing in the wake of rising building activity are numerous favorable developments for affiliated enterprises.
While the attendant expansion has followed residential construction most closely, authorities cite current developments as evidence of a reawakening of heavy industry. Residential building contracts awarded for the last four months are nearly double those of the same period of 1934, and the $48,000,000 total in July was 140 per cent over July of last year.
Lest the large percentage totals warp the long term view, analysts point out that the total value of the $200,000,000 monthly average for the five years from 1925 to 1929.
Companies manufacturing building materials and supplies, however, have shared in the increases, and the Fitch Publishing Co. in a survey calls attention to the fact that the largest truck unit in the field reported sales about 80 per cent ahead of a year before through July.
"This increase was closely in line with the 67 per cent rise in residential contract awards for the first seven months," the survey recalled. On the other hand, both non-residential and public utility contracts awarded currently are under 1934. They are, however, higher than depression low points.
An easing in Federal expenditures for public works has been a factor in the decline, authorities declare.
Cement manufacturers have been hit by the slower rate, especially as concerns highway paving. Contracts for that type of work were 28 per cent less in the first six months of this year than in the first half of 1934.
Fitch commented that "road building forms one of the largest outlets for concrete, but the sharpness of this decline in demand this year has been moderated by larger use in residential building and for general farm purposes which also constitute a major outlet."

90 Cent Loan Doubts Send Grains Lower

Opening Rally Followed by Dull Session as Traders Wait.

By The Associated Press.
Chicago, Aug. 26.—The grain trade was unsettled today by congressional development at Washington. Wheat advanced a cent a bushel at the opening and then reacted to a net fractional loss for the session.
Except for the opening rally, the market gave a dull performance. Traders showed little desire to make commitments until after adjournment of Congress. Some of the nervousness was ascribed to conflicting views as to the possible action of Congress on a proposal for a mandatory 90-cent a bushel loan on wheat.
At the close wheat was 1/4 cent lower, compared with Saturday's finish; December, 90 1/2¢, and corn was 1/4 cent up; oats, 1/4 cent up; barley, 1/4 cent up; rye, 1/4 cent up; and clover, 1/4 cent up.
Buying at the start was largely in response to strength shown at Liverpool and to higher cotton prices. As soon as resting orders had been placed, however, purchasing power dwindled and the market reacted under hedging pressure. Liverpool's strength was attributed to a fair demand from millers. Weekly European statistics were less bullish, however, with world's shipments the largest in some time, while stocks on ocean passage increased. Cable advice from Argentina said drought conditions were unbroken and prospects for the crop are poor except in the province of Buenos Aires.
Stocks of wheat at domestic visible supply stations increased 5,391,000 bushels during the past week to 54,635,000 bushels, compared with 115,223,000 a year ago. The increase was about 800,000 bushels below that recorded the previous week, which was generally in line with expectations.
